

TALK ABOUT CHANGE IN CALENDAR GIVES FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Rent Day Would Come Off-tender and Jail Sentences
Would Be Shorter

Vancouver, B. C.—After this year it is entirely probable that in this world over will see another February 29.

That is the prediction of Dr. Moses B. Cotsworth, who does not foresee the end of the world, but merely the adoption of his International Fixed Calendar, providing for 12 months. Within little more than a year he has appeared before legislative, business and labor leaders of more than 20 nations. The International Chamber of Commerce, the League of Nations and many a religious organization has appointed committees to report on its feasibility. Every one has found it not only desirable but practical even where religious holidays were concerned.

WORLD HOLIDAY
Dr. Cotsworth's plan is to divide the year into thirteen months of 28 days each, with the one remaining day set aside as "Year Day," to be a holiday the world over and to fall between Dec. 28 and Jan. 1. The extra month, called "Sol," because of the fourth of this month would come the summer solstice, longest day in the year. The 366th day that comes every four years he would call "Leap Year Day" and would have it fall between June 28 and Sol 1. Thus the first day of each month always would fall on Sunday, Monday always would fall on the 2d, 9th, 16th, and 23d. Each month would end on a Saturday night. Adoption of the calendar would greatly simplify the keeping of accounts, would eliminate the confusion and extra work that now is made necessary by varying months of an unequal number of days.

"NOT CONFUSING"
"I believe that adoption of the scheme would be as great a convenience to the people of all nations as the standard time zone," said Dr. Cotsworth. "And I believe the change would be even less confusing than was the simplification of the time system."

But there are certain factors in Dr. Cotsworth's plan which have far gone unnamed. There's the matter of birthdays, for instance, which might bring shrill protest from about a million people in this country, and a correspondingly larger number all over the world. Consider that the flight of the 29th, 30th or 31st of any month. With the months trimmed to 28 days each, he never again could celebrate an honest-to-goodness birthday. Of course, in the case of the perpetually young sex, that might not make so much difference.

The new calendar might be nothing but sad news to everyone who doesn't win his own home. For rent would be collected thirteen times each year! Only in a few instances would the scheme be retroactive, increasing the incomes of workers; for industry generally has adopted the system of paying wages by the week.

It even would have an influence in criminology. Today when a culprit is sentenced to say six months in jail, he peers through the bars for at least 183 and often 185 days. The new calendar would be responsible for the reduction of his sentence to a flat 168 days.

Among others who wouldn't welcome the new scheme of dates and days would be the superstitious. They'd find, on examination of the calendar, that every month would contain a Friday the 13th.

WOULDN'T NEED THEM
No wall of protest has been heard from the calendar makers, but the industry might do well to maintain a lobby in Washington to try to defeat the scheme in this country. For the International Fixed Calendar conceivably might put a big crimp in their business. With every day falling on a set date, any school child could tell off-hand that Washington's birthday would come on Wednesday in 1946.

Speaking of children, they'd never have to learn that history about "Thirty days hath September."

And speaking of verse, get ready for a howl from the garret garblers and basement bards who delight in rhyming about the summer months. Just try to complete a poem beginning:

"Oh, what is so rare as a day in Sol!"

LEGION SPONSORS COED DEBATE HERE FRIDAY

The Americanization committee of the American Legion is sponsoring a debate between the negative team of the girls debaters of Lawrence college and the affirmative team of Marquette university at 8 o'clock Friday evening at Appleton high school.

Members of the Lawrence debate squad are Miss Rose Grimmer, Green Bay, and Miss Agnes Huberty, Menominee Falls. The negative team will also debate the affirmative team of Carroll college Wednesday afternoon at Kaukauna high school.

PLAN 'STILL' CAMPAIGN FOR CHAMBER MEMBERS

While the membership of the local chamber of commerce is a little over 600, plans of the membership committee, of which Roy Marston is chairman, are to increase that number to 700 by the time the fiscal year ends in April. There will be no drive for new members but instead the committee will go on a "still" hunt for prospects.

WEATHERMAN HELPS TAKE SNOW OFF HIGHWAYS

Three days of moderate weather, and the heavy rainstorm Monday night have caused side roads in the county to be covered with water, according to the rural mail carriers at the post office. The rain and thaw, however, have cleared the roads of all snow and carriers will be able to use automobiles. The warm weather has not caused the roads to become soft, the carriers say, because the frost is still in the ground.

SHALL WE CHANGE CALENDAR?

Here is Dr. Moses B. Cotsworth, originator of the International Fixed Calendar. Lower left is his calendar of the month of February, which would apply as well to each of the other twelve months. In February, Lincoln's birthday would fall on the 15th, Washington's on the 25th.

REVEAL HAYS EFFORT 'TO HIDE BOND GIFT

to hold them and make a contribution to the national committee to be used in wiping out the deficit. While he knew the securities came from Sinclair, he said he knew of nothing irregular about Sinclair's use of Teapot Dome at the time. He declined to accept the bonds, however, but a few days later made a $50,000 outright contribution to the committee.

As the former Republican chairman proceeded to the accompaniment of frequent personal lifts, it became manifest that Walsh was seeking to draw a contrast between Hays' sworn testimony on previous occasions and today.

The prosecutor went back to March 22, 1924, when Hays told the committee Sinclair could not possibly have given the party fund more than $75,000 in a certain kind of bonds. Then the record of the witness testimony on March 1, last, was produced.

Hays protested and argued and Walsh replied so vigorously that once his eye glasses fell off. During the hearing Hays' testimony of March 1, when he revealed for the first time that Sinclair gave him a total of $250,000 in liberty bonds, Walsh said:

"Do you care to comment on the testimony?"

"Well, I said I handed the fund and I did. I said I thought that the $75,000 went to the Empire company and it did."

"But you said you did not remember the details."

"Now let's not get technical, Senator," Hays said and the crowd of listeners roared.

Walsh reread part of the 1924 testimony in which Hays said the Sinclair gift of $75,000 was not made to him. This month he testified he solicited Sinclair and received the bonds from Sinclair himself.

"Do you want to explain that?" Walsh insisted. Then he said:

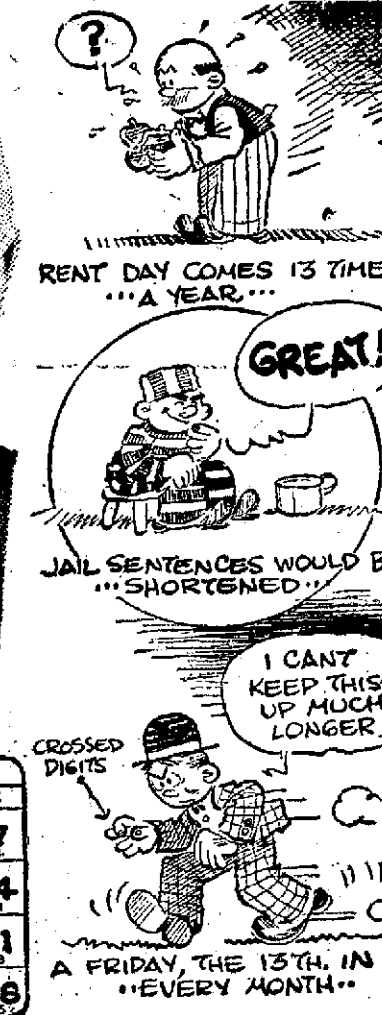

"I did not regard the delivery of those securities as payment until it was determined what disposition was to be made to them."

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS FIGHTING LANGFORD BILL

Charging that a nation-wide effort to commit the United States to Sunday legislation is now being made by so-called church reformers with a view of eventually bringing about a union of state and church, the Seventh-Day Adventists held a religious liberty rally here Saturday afternoon and vigorously opposed the Langford bill, now pending in congress.

The Adventists say that the passage of this proposed measure would give the Sunday law advocates an entering wedge into the United States congress that would open the way for the passage of a national Sunday law.

"That the Sunday law advocates are specifically aiming a blow at the Seventh-day Adventists who have their world's headquarters in Washington is evident," according to J. Johnson, elder of the local church.

KAW LABOR COUNCIL CHOOSES OFFICERS

William Bay Named President at Annual Meeting Monday Evening

William Bay was elected president of the Kaukauna Trades and Labor council at the annual meeting Monday evening at the South Side Motor hotel at Kaukauna.

About 35 members of the organization were present and heard Henry Ohl, Jr., Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, give an address stressing the importance of labor organization.

In an open forum meeting following Mr. Ohl's talk, a discussion of ways and means of increasing the membership of Kaukauna labor unions was held. Anton Miller, assemblyman from the second Outagamie county district, was present and gave an address on legislation.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Howard Copp, vice president; Henry Adams, recording secretary; Carl Swedberg, financial secretary; and W. H. Cooper, treasurer.

The next meeting of the organization will be held April 3.

At the meeting, Mr. Ohl came to Appleton where he visited with Fred E. Bachman, president of the Appleton Trades and Labor council.

ARTISTS PROVE ENGLISH SINGABLE

English Singers of London to Appear in Concert Here Friday Evening

The English Singers of London, who will appear in concert at 8:20 Friday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel as a number of the Community Artists series, have demonstrated the fallacy of the belief that the English tongue is unsingable.

The use of the pure linguistic style of the British horn imparts to the words an additional grace and loveliness. Their programs, comprising a variety of long-hidden gems from the Elizabethan period of a literary and musical art that represent the very acme of part-song composition, demand perfect diction and accurate enunciation of the text. It is their business to make the words clear and intelligible and they have brought this part of their art to such a degree of proficiency as to banish any notion regarding the unsingability of English.

In the motets, madrigals, folksongs, ballads, and canzonets which they will present, it is absolutely indispensable that they be accompanied (without accompaniment) and unlike the glee, which is for solo voices, is most effective when entrusted to a limited number of vocalists.

Changes of tone, embracing every shade of difference between loud and soft and introduced often by most delicate gradations of strongly marked contrasts, are continually demanded of the singers both by the character of the music and the sense of the words.

The slightest uncertainty of intonation or rhythm is apt to ruin the effect. So skillfully do the English Singers present this most difficult phase of vocal art that the auditor is unaware that it is art. The ease and surety of their work gives the impression that it is the simplest thing possible.

One marriage license was issued Tuesday by John E. Hamsel, county clerk, to James Konop, Xenia, and Miss Bernice Maubach, Kimberly.

HEAVY SNOW STORMS CLOSE HIGHWAYS IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

Central and Southern Sections Are Good for Travel, State Bulletin Says

A heavy snow storm in the northern part of the state last Thursday has closed most of the roads in the northern sections and motorists planning trips through that section are advised to secure first hand information from county highway departments before they start, according to the weekly road bulletin issued by the state highway department.

The road report states a thaw would cause all except paved roads to be disagreeable for traveling and as the weather over the weekend was warm, it is likely gravel roads are in poor condition.

Highways in this section of the state are in fair condition and those planning trips to cities near by will experience no trouble if they remain on paved highways. Following is the way which are used by people in this vicinity.

Highway 10 from Manitowish to Appleton and then to Waupaca, Stevens Point and Eau Claire is open although gravel sections are somewhat rough. Highway 17 from Manitowish to Sister is in fair condition.

Highway 26 from Beloit to Oshkosh is open but only in fair condition north of Oshkosh.

Highway 41 from the Illinois line through Milwaukee and Appleton to Green Bay is good to Green Bay and only fair from there to Marinette.

Highway 47 from Shawano to Rhinelander is in fair condition.

Highway 53 from Milwaukee to Kaukauna is open to the end of the line. Highway 73 from Green Bay to Sister Bay is open.

Highway 110 from Oshkosh to Fremont is in good condition.

Highway 141 from Milwaukee to Green Bay through Manitowish is in fair condition.

JURY DISAGREES IN CASE AGAINST CHASE

Local Milk Company Manager Had Appealed $50 Fine for Theft of Ice

A circuit court jury hearing an appeal taken by Morris Chase, manager of the Appleton Pure Milk company, convicted in municipal court on May 18, 1927, on a charge of stealing 50 pounds of ice valued at 50 cents, was dismissed by Judge Edgar V. Werner at 11 o'clock Monday night after a disagreement was reported.

Chase was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg. He appealed to circuit court and a jury was drawn Monday afternoon. Retiring at 6 o'clock, the jury deliberated until 11 o'clock when it reported no verdict could be reached.

Chase trial was the first case heard by a jury in the March term of circuit court.

Ben Cabot, Appleton, paid a fine of $35 and costs of $15 when he pleaded guilty before Judge Werner of a charge of receiving stolen property valued at $150. Cabot was convicted on Sept. 13, 1927, by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court and was fined $50 and costs. He decided to appeal the case but when attorneys were ready to draw a jury Tuesday morning he pleaded guilty and Judge Werner imposed the fine. Cabot was arrested on complaint of Mike Hilkowitz that Cabot had purchased junk from Harry Luehke, who took the junk from Hilkowitz.

GOVERNOR SCHEDULED TO TALK TO STUDENTS

Gov. Fred Zimmerman is scheduled to speak before the student body of Appleton high school at assembly period on March 20. The governor also will speak at a combined meeting of the chamber of commerce, Lions club, Rotary club and Kiwanis club at noon at the Conway hotel.

LITTLE MONEY SPENT IN PRIMARY ELECTION

Although only 19 of the 26 candidates for nomination in the primary election had filed a report of their expenditures with the city clerk Tuesday morning, indications were that very little money was spent to obtain nominations. Only four of the 19 who filed listed expenditures which were as follows: A. C. Zelle, $8.82; William Densteth, $2.45; R. H. Wheeler $5.50; Alfred Wetzel $5.

A meeting of the membership committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the association building beginning at 7:30 Wednesday evening. The annual budget and plans for coming activities will be discussed. T. E. Orblison is chairman of the committee.

TEACHER DIES

Engelbert Schueller, member of the first city commission from 1911 to 1913 and a teacher here for a quarter century, died at his home here Monday night.

Engelbert Schueller, 72, city commissioner from 1911 to 1913, died at his home, 405 W. Lawrence-st., Monday night after a long illness.

Mr. Schueller, organist and teacher in St. Joseph's congregation here for 25 years, is widely known as "Teacher." Mr. Schueller had charge of the education of the older boys of St. Joseph parish for a quarter century and ten members of his classes were ordained to the priesthood. One of these is his son, the Rev. A. J. Schueller of Francis Creek.

Born in a log cabin in Ozaukee-county on Jan. 30, 1856, Prof. Schueller received his early education from his grandfather, Engelbert Mueller, who had been a teacher in schools in Germany before coming to America.

Later Mr. Schueller entered Pio Nono college at St. Francis and was graduated in June, 1878. He spent the next three years in religious work at St. Benedict's parish, Brooklyn, N. Y., and in 1881 he came to Appleton. Shortly after he came here he married Miss Helen Hopfensperger at St. Joseph church. Mrs. Schueller died July 28, 1924.

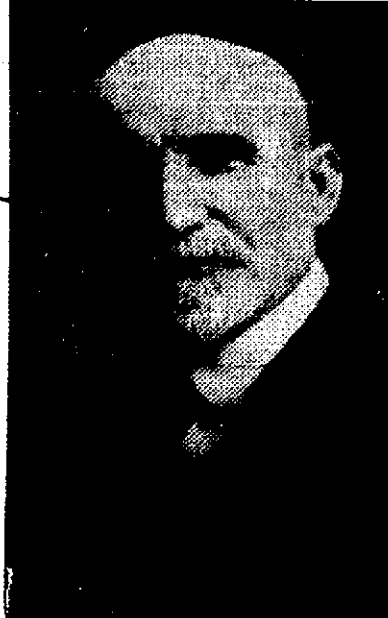

In 1911 when Appleton adopted the commission form of government Mr. Schueller was elected as one of the first three commissioners.

Survivors are three sons, Rev. A. J. Schueller, Francis Creek; Lawrence Harrison; Henry, St. John Theological seminary, Collegeville, Minn.; five daughters, Mrs. J. J. Guentert, South Bend, Ind.; and Misses Adelaide, Louise, Mary and Cora, Appleton.

A requiem funeral mass will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at St. Joseph church and interment will be in St. Joseph cemetery.

The flag on the city hall was at half-mast today in memory of Mr. Schueller.

SEE LITTLE CHANCE FOR SPRING FLOODS

Although four spillways on the middle dam of the Fox river were open Sunday to permit sluiceway of water and one remained open Monday, there is little danger from high water, according to water power engineers. Unless there are heavy rains within the next few days there is little reason to believe there will be any trouble from water all season.

The Fox and Wolf river valleys have missed the heavy snows that probably will cause flooding of other northern Wisconsin rivers.

JENSEN CARRIES ON HOCKEY LOOP SCRAP

Captain of Oshkosh Team to Ask Amateur Association for Interpretation

Neenah—Tired over the decision of the board of directors of the Fox River Valley Hockey league, made last Friday evening at a meeting held at Neenah city hall, in which both Neenah and Oshkosh teams were claimed as tied for the championship of the 1927-28 season, Captain H. Jensen of the Oshkosh team intends to consult the Amateur Hockey association at Chicago for an interpretation of the squabble.

The argument here was settled according to the league's bylaws which states that all disputes over a forfeit can only be settled by the board of directors. The directors met and voted 4 to 2 to allow Neenah to claim the forfeit.

The question in dispute is over the results of the last game played here when the Oshkosh captain and one of the men walked off the rink before the referee had officially called the game off on account of poor ice. A large crowd had gathered to witness the game and had paid to see the contest which ended after the first quarter. Neenah was willing to go on with the game as the ice had been scraped for the second period but Oshkosh refused and referee Jack Kimberly called the game off. Captain Jensen claims that a decision from the hockey association may be considered as final and Oshkosh like last year, will claim the championship.

League Of Nations To Give Up Swiss Hotel As Headquarters After Ten Years Of Occupancy

Geneva—(AP)—The League of Nations is to have a new and palatial home on the shore of Lake Lemman.

The Swiss government has guaranteed the purchase of the present headquarters of the league, which means undoubtedly that the building will become what it was—a famous hotel. When former President Wilson insisted that the League of Nations should be located at Geneva, a decision was made to take over the Hotel National, which was purchased at a cost of $1,100,000 for use as the league secretariat. This hotel with its wonderful garden, constructed in 1873, had long been a rendezvous for celebrated foreigners, including Americans. It was in rooms now used by the council of the League of Nations that was celebrated in 1911 the marriage of Miss Dorothy Payne Whitney to William D. Straight, an American diplomatic officer, who later entered finance and in 1913 the marriage of Miss Nancy Leishmann, daughter of the then American ambassador at Berlin, to the Duke de Croix.

Princess of Chumay (formerly Clara Ward), Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, Miss Mary Garden, Mr. and Mrs. David Jayne Hill and Frank A. Johnson were among Americans who frequently stayed at the Hotel National. The long list of foreign guests included Prince George of Greece, the Duchess of Devonshire, the Maharaja of Kapurthala, the Archduchess Gisela of Austria, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the Duke des Abruzzes, Thomas G. Masaryk, later president of Czechoslovakia; Eleonora Duse, the actress and the Galkwa of Baroda.

At least two years will be needed to construct the new home of the league, which will include accommodations for the secretariat now lodged at the former Hotel National, for the new league library donated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and also an assembly hall.

Several hundred plans were submitted by architects from some 20 countries, but the jury of diplomats appointed by the council has asked two architects, a Frenchman, Nenot, and a Swiss, Flegenhauer, to submit a final plan based upon the plan which they originally submitted.

The liberation of the Hotel National will be welcome to the big crowds which come to Geneva on important occasions, for it will relieve the present hotel congestion.

DIETING, GADDING HELPS TUBERCULOSIS GRIP YOUNG WOMEN

Lions Told to Submit to Periodical Health Examinations by Physicians

An alarming increase of tuberculosis among girls of from 15 to 25 years, due probably to dieting, insufficient rest, and inadequate clothing, was described by Leslie Lewis, director of research for the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association in a talk before the Lions club at the Conway hotel Monday noon.

Mr. Lewis urged business and professional men to submit to complete physical examinations at least once a year in order to determine the condition of their health.

George R. Schaefer, president of the South Greenville Grange, discussed the Grange's building program and urged the support of Appleton businessmen. He said he was talking to the lunch-club clubs to acquaint Appleton men with the need of the Grange, and to visits by members of the organization to secure funds with which to reduce a $25,000 building to replace the present Grange hall.

In twenty years, since the inauguration of a systematic campaign against tuberculosis, the white plague has lost its potency as a killer, Mr. Lewis said. From its position as the greatest destroyer of human life it now ranks fifth as a killer in the United States and sixth in Wisconsin, the speaker said. He also made the observation that life expectancy in Wisconsin is greater than in any other commonwealth in the world. Tuberculosis, however, still is taking away one Wisconsin life every five hours and is the greatest killer of men and women between the ages of 15 and 44.

Mr. Lewis said the campaigns for health education have borne fruit but there still is much to be done and he urged parents to see to it that their children practice the health precepts taught in school. Included in these are proper food and sufficient rest.

"We are hoping that the work we are doing will reduce the menace of tuberculosis to the irreducible minimum, to put it in the same class as small pox and other diseases which not so many years ago often wiped out whole cities," Mr. Lewis said. Medical science, however, has combated smallpox until the disease is a comparative rarity, and that is what we hope to do with tuberculosis."

March has been designated as "Early Diagnosis Month" by the anti-tuberculosis associations of the country for the purpose of impressing upon the people the necessity of early examination by physicians when symptoms of trouble appear so that early treatment can be given. Mr. Lewis said it is easy to diagnose tuberculosis after it has reached the advanced stages but it requires a skillful physician to find it in the early stages and for that reason he urged frequent medical examination so it may be found before it has advanced so far as to make recovery doubtful.

FEBRUARY CONSUMPTION OF WATER SHOWS GAIN

Indications that Appleton people either are drinking less water or bathing more is contained in the February report of pumpings at the city pumping station and filtration plant. Appleton used 53,940,000 gallons of water last month as compared with 48,470,000 gallons for the same month a year ago. The daily average was 1,800,000 gallons for last month and 1,730,000 gallons for the same period last year. Only 3.1 percent of the water pumped was used for washing filters as compared with 5.7 percent a year ago, indicating that the new settling basin is serving its purpose. The Diesel engines were run 454 hours last month and 413 hours in February 1927.

FIVE M. E. BISHOPS WILL BE RETIRED AT GENERAL CONFERENCE

Churchmen Have Reached Age Limit; Successors to Be Chosen

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—With a combined service record of 267 of their 36 years of life, five of the 37 bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, who have reached the age limit, will be retired when the general conference meets here in May. Church discipline prescribes that a bishop shall be relieved of active duty at the close of the session of the general conference nearest his seventy-third birthday.

The retiring will be Joseph F. Berry, Philadelphia; Luther B. Wilson, New York; Wilbur P. Thirkield, Chattanooga, Tenn.; William F. Oldham, Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Francis W. Warne, Bangalore City, India.

The conference will choose their successors at the Kansas City meeting. Bishops are elected by a two-thirds majority conference vote. Dean of the retiring bishops is Joseph F. Berry, Philadelphia, who was the forty-seventh bishop of the church chosen in 1904. He served 8 years at Buffalo, N. Y., and the last 16 at Philadelphia.

Bishop Berry was born at Aylmer, Ontario, May 13, 1856, one of 12 children. His father, Rev. Francis Berry, served small charges in Canada and Michigan for 65 years at a salary never exceeding $1,000 annually. Bishop Berry began to preach at 16, was licensed at 17 and received ordination in the Michigan conference at 18.

A printer's apprentice in his youth, he became assistant editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate 15 years later and editor of the newly-founded Epworth Herald in 1890. Fourteen years later he became general secretary of the Epworth League.

He helped found the Forward Movement in Methodism. Since 1912 he has been president of the Methodist Board of Home Missions and has edited several religious books. Bishop Wilson likewise has served as bishop 24 years, having been elected fifty-seventh bishop in 1904. He has served the New York area for 16 years. Born in Baltimore in 1856, he was educated at Dickinson college and entered the ministry in 1878.

He is president of the Board of Foreign Missions, secretary of the Board of Bishops and a former president of the Anti-Saloon League of America. During the world war he did U. M. C. A. work in France.

Bishop Thirkield, lecturer and writer, became a bishop in 1912, and has served at Chattanooga for the past 4 years. Born at Franklin, O., in 1854, he was educated at Ohio Wesleyan and Boston universities, entering the ministry in 1878.

PEOPLE OVER 40

People over 40 have to be careful of their blood pressure. It's at this age, due to our abnormal living habits, that our blood pressure begins to slip up on us. And high blood pressure shortens life—may cut it off suddenly.

Modern living puts too great a pressure upon the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians agree, than ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few bring a delightful change.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package! Special Agent: Schlitz Bros. Co.

tering the ministry in 1878. He was general secretary of the Epworth League in 1899, and president of Howard university, Washington, from 1906 to 1912.

Bishop Oldham, elected in 1916, has had world-wide religious experience. Born in Bangalore City, India, in 1854, the son of a British officer, he served the church before attaining his majority.

After his graduation from Boston university, he entered the Michigan conference, then was sent to India, where he helped found the Malaysia conference and the Anglo-Chinese school at Singapore. Poor health caused his return to the United States within 5 years and he served in Ohio and Chicago. In 1904 he returned to Asia as a missionary bishop.

Bishop Warne was elected in 1920. He was born at Erin, Ontario, Can., December 30, 1854, and entered the ministry 20 years later. He went to Calcutta, India, on missionary work in 1887, and became a missionary bishop there in 1900. During his work he paid official visits to Malaysia, China, Korea, Japan, Honolulu and the Philippines.

ART CLASSES GROW RAPIDLY WITH NEW WAY OF TEACHING

Aim of Instruction Is to Increase Power of Graphic Expression

Practical classes in art began at Appleton high school less than two years ago with twenty pupils, which met twice a week in the old dining room, according to Miss Dorothy Krippner, art supervisor.

The classes have grown until the department boasts of two classes of 55 students, which meet every day during the year. Because of the inadequate facilities in the senior high school, Miss Krippner holds the classes in Lincoln school.

The aims of senior high school art are to increase the pupil's power of graphic expression in terms of drawing and design; to stimulate creative ability on the part of the pupil through the various craft activities, such as bookbinding, block printing, batik and relief; to cultivate appreciation of art through the understanding of art principles in their application to affairs of the community, the home, and the individual; to teach the technique of art so that students leaving school at the end of the twelfth year will have a working knowledge of the subject, and that students who continue to study in art school, college, or university will have a solid foundation for future work.

In the color work, the Prang color theory is used. Primary and Binary colors, tints, and shades, grayed and neutral colors, psychology of color, and the use of color in everyday life—all these are considered under the color phase of the work.

The stimulation of creative ability is a part of the work in design. This includes all-over, border, conventional, and abstract designs. The principles of color and design are applied in the problems presented under composition, still life, and perspective.

Composition includes landscape, pictorial, and figure work. The making of flowers, fruits, and objects in water color, pen and ink, and cut paper comprise the work in still life. Under perspective comes printing, which includes speed ball pen writing, and poster alphabets, decorative lettering, pencils, posters, commercial art, and crafts.

Block printing, making of Christmas cards, glass painting, basketry, wall hangings, clay modeling, soap modeling come under the crafts classification.

A class in art appreciation also is conducted in the high school under the direction of Miss Catherine Spence of the home arts department. The class was organized about three years ago.

The newest feature added to the class are the 50 colored reproductions of the world's masterpieces which have come from Germany. These will be mounted and used in the classroom.

Annunciation, by Fra Angelico, Spring, by Botticelli, The Close of Day, by Breton, The Valley Farm, by Constable, Dance of the Nymphs, by Corot, Children of Charles I, by Van Dyck, Mrs. Siddons and The Blue Boy by Gainsborough, Light of the World, by Hunt, The Angelus, by Millet, St. Genevieve Watching over Paris, de Chavannes, by Rauffaet, The Night Watch, by Rembrandt, Age of Innocence, by Reynolds, Beata Beatrix, by Rossetti, The Christ Child with St. John, by Rubens, and The Frieze of the Prophets, by Sargent, are among the collection. Great artists of the world are represented.

An Easy System to Follow for People Half Dead Around the Age of 40

Most people around the age of 40 are leading members in the half-dead or down-and-out health class. So to put back life and power into the blood follow this proven advice. Go to your druggist, get a box of Bulgarian herb blood tea. It costs very little.

The rich, vitalizing herb juices taken once or twice a week are guaranteed to relieve constipation, sour, gassy stomach, indigestion, liver, kidney and impure blood troubles. Remember, Bulgarian Herb Blood Tea also breaks up a cold quickly. Take it steaming hot.

MEGALOMANIA

The public read the report of the examination of W. G. Warden, chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Coal Company before the senate investigating committee, with varied and mingled feelings, a snicker here, a sneer there, practically all with the conclusion either that Mr. Warden was jesting or that there was something askew with the man.

In the matter of the relations between the coal operators and employees Mr. Warden says that he does not believe in collective bargaining nor in organized labor. So far, although he may be out of step with the majority, he is entitled to his own opinion. But Mr. Warden did not stop there. He expressed the thought that he was entitled to be an absolute dictator in his own company, that such a dictatorship was of a benevolent nature and would inure to the better advantage of those who worked for his company, and that, in answer to a direct question, he believed men must be treated as machines and acted upon that belief.

Mr. Warden is suffering from megalomania, pursued by delusions of grandeur. But he is not the first to have suffered from such a complaint.

Some twenty years ago when an investigation of these same coal mining conditions in Pennsylvania was in progress a man named Baer sitting in the witness chair made the statement, in substance, that the Almighty had decreed control of the coal producing business to be in the hands of the operators, that therefore the conditions concerning which complaint had been made were in fact of divine origin, and that he himself held his position by divine right. Blaming the Almighty for the errors, weaknesses and shortcomings of mankind is neither a matter of sense nor humor. Nor is it a matter of jocularity when a person with a warped mentality has in his hands the power of producing misery or happiness to a great number of people because such a mentality generally is productive of a minimum amount of happiness.

The public may sit idly by when the weak remnant of some tottering royal line clutches convulsively at "the divine right of kings" as some justification or excuse for his attempted control of power but when kings were swept out of the United States and the western world there was swept with them all the senseless jargon and purple panoply that has accompanied them down the march of time.

The present investigation of the coal miners' strike brings to mind the fact that these investigations have been held every three or four years for the last thirty or forty years. We do not know that they have ever accomplished anything. Some of the investigators are quite pronounced in their denunciation of conditions that they find, rid themselves of their opinions, and no more is heard from them. Can it be that we have in our congressional halls altogether too much talk and altogether too little work, or must we conclude that there is nothing to be done in such a situation but to permit this sort of a fuss with its attendant evils every little while?

SMALL BOY'S ETHICS

The youngsters in a special school for boys who don't fit in with a regular class—thoughtless people call them "bad boys"—are much interested in questions of conduct. They are issuing a school paper, "The Pep," which they prepare and print themselves. In its columns they frequently propound Knotty ethical problems which all the paper's readers are asked to comment on. Here is a recent poser:

"Skinny sold Chuck a rubber ball for 10 cents, and skipped away. Chuck tried to bounce the ball, but it would not bounce because it had a hole in it. Chuck took it to school and sold it to Red for 15 cents. What do you think about it?"

Another: Phil and Joe were standing by an open window at dismissal time.

Phil happened to have Joe's pencil, and by accident he dropped it out of the window. Joe at once jerked off Phil's cap and threw it out the window. What do you think about it?"

Many a teacher who has struggled with boys in similar quarrels has found the solutions were far from simple. Wise teachers probably discovered soon that real help could be had from the youngsters themselves. Discipline imposed arbitrarily by higher authority is rarely quite so effective as discipline discussed and understood by the culprits. That school paper should be a fine moral force in that community.

THE SAFE WAY IS CHEAPEST

A news item from Iowa last week gave the unpleasant details of a sad and unnecessary story. It concerned a man who, at sixty years of age and by dint of hard and persistent work and saving, had accumulated several thousand dollars, only to run into a "sure tip" on the market, turning over his funds to some rascals parading as brokers, having those funds "invested" in a perfectly worthless thing and losing not only the savings of many years but the safe pillow upon which he depended to spend his declining days. The incident brings to light the persistence of those unconscionable persons engaged in hoodwinking the public and swindling the individual in a game in which the person who dabbles hasn't the slightest chance of anything excepting certain loss.

Many newspapers, and as many magazines, have kept up a constant exposure of the systems employed, in order to prevent honest and too confiding people from losing their stake in life.

Those who have been engaged in this work of public benefaction, as well as the special prosecutors employed by the federal government to track down, arrest and prosecute the swindlers, believe that the most successful system employed is along this line: the swindlers pretend to or actually do print a publication giving it a title somewhat like well known legitimate financial publications. They also speak in the glowing words of professional investment stocks or bonds such as those of General Motors, United States Steel, Standard Oil and the like. They next refer, and generally falsely, to some previous prediction of theirs concerning some security that has risen rapidly upon the market, and this for the purpose of indicating "their inside information" or knowledge and skill in such affairs. They then attempt to, and often sell some worthless piece of paper either as a stock or bond, pocket the proceeds, sometimes continuing the deception over a long period of time by paying back a few dollars in the form of "dividends", which payment often results in the inducement by the investor of a similar investment by his friends in the same security.

Altogether it is a fine mask, a clever camouflage, creating a situation as against which the ordinary person is unable to cope.

And yet, in fact, there is no necessity for these tragic losses, most of which come to those who can bear them least. There is one method, and only one, of exposing and defeating these frauds: an investigation of the "investment" before making it, as well as an investigation of the company offering it, investigations that are easy to make and without expense.

The persistence of these swindlers, put out of business in some community only to arise quickly in some other and distant community, indicates only too plainly the profits of crime, profits that would never be made were it not for the baseless confidence and gullibility of the public. Men and women who toil long hours for their income, wise enough to realize the necessity of laying part of it aside for the inevitable stormy weather, are too often, but putty in the hands of dishonest persons willing to trim them without a quiver.

Investigation has shown that there is but one known way to avoid these impostors: one must make it a habit in life, before entering upon an investment, except those sponsored by reliable financial houses of proven standing, to seek the advice of one's banker. It is simple and not only cheap, but generally without any expense whatever.

The Democrats will find 3000 hotel rooms in Houston when they get there in June, and if three aren't 3000 newspaper men in those rooms we've missed our guess.

One of the delegates to the Missouri Democratic convention weighed more than 400 pounds. He probably lends weight to the gathering.

A CABBAGE A DAY KEEPS THE DENTIST AWAY

This is no whimsy. I mean it. Not that I would favor idleness for all our dentists. Everybody who wants to keep his teeth long and strong must have the teeth looked over, polished and if necessary repaired, regularly, at least twice a year. This is an inflexible rule forced upon us by the unwholesome effect of civilization, and it doesn't matter the merest whit whether one uses tooth brush or not. Of course a cabbage a day is a large order for one person, but did I say one person must eat it? No. I think it would serve almost any family, at least any modern American family. But I must explain just why I dote on cabbage as a preserver of the teeth. I don't want any one to suspect that I am subsidized by the American Cabbage Growers' league. Never in my long years of loyal service to the cabbage industry has anybody presented me with so much as a sample of cold slave. But just the same I maintain that there is nothing under the sun more likely to keep the dentist away than cabbage. Raw, cooked or even fermented—but let us leave the kraut question out of this; after several encounters I am reluctantly constrained to acknowledge that I don't like kraut very well, but that's all I have against it.

The first thing about cabbage that commends it as a health food particularly efficacious for the prevention of pyorrhea and tooth decay, is that it is rich in calcium (lime). If there is one element in which there is a shortage it is calcium (lime) in the diet of the American city dweller who depends too much on the cans for substances. Moreover, we know that a calcium deficiency is concerned in the development of poor teeth and gingivitis or pyorrhea.

Cabbage is not nearly so rich in calcium as cauliflower, but cauliflowers cost almost as much as orchids, and besides most people tire of cauliflower more quickly than they do of cabbage. Raw cauliflower is so attractive as raw cabbage is to the average taste. Raw cabbage probably retains a kind of ferment that resembles the pepsin of the gastric juice; cooking destroys this ferment. But cooking does also destroy the valuable vitamin C in cabbage, the vitamin that prevents scurvy, and for this reason I commend this way of preparing cabbage, if you simply will not take it raw:

Heat up some butter in a kettle. When it is piping hot put in the cabbage, cut up into small pieces, chop on a tight cover and cook over a slow fire for 10 to 15 minutes only. The shorter the cooking the more of the antiscorbutic vitamin retained. Cabbage prepared in this way is quite palatable.

This antiscorbutic vitamin C is not the only vitamin in cabbage. There is considerable vitamin A present also, and this vitamin is probably more essential than any and (consequently) more nutritious of the teeth than vitamin C is; moreover vitamin D is less affected by cooking, though it loses its potency on long storage. When we attempt to speak definitely about vitamins and their characteristics it should be remembered that all vitamins are merely hypothetical substances—no one has as yet identified a vitamin physically or chemically.

Anyway, cabbage is good for the teeth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sleep and Complexion
I'm asking two questions and would like an answer at an early date. (1) Is saxolite harmful to the face? (2) Is ovaline all right to drink at bed time? Does it contain anything harmful? (Miss O.)

Answer:—The last analysis of saxolite I have at hand was made by state chemists of Kansas, and showed that it consisted practically of equal parts of epsom salts and alum. I can't see how epsom salts and alum can help the face. So far as I know, ovaline is harmless to drink at any time, and so is milk. Besides, milk is rather beneficial to health.

The Old Folks Are So Set
For several years I have read your articles and with much benefit. For instance, I now have absolutely no fear of wet feet. In an argument with an acquaintance who insists he invariably becomes sick when he is exposed to dampness of any kind, I maintained that if the house is kept at proper temperature the house cannot be damp. Please advise me whether I am right. (Miss G. G.)

Answer:—I don't know what temperature would produce dampness with you, but you are right. Dampness never causes illness, if that is what you argue. However, old geezers who cherish the notion that wet feet and dampness makes one sick, are usually impermeable to scientific truth or common sense. So what's the use arguing with 'em?

A Wen Is a Cyst
What is a wen? Of what are they formed? Can they be removed successfully or are they best left alone? Are they liable to cause cancer? (Mrs. M. B. C.)

Answer:—A wen is a sebaceous cyst, that is, a little sac containing more or less fluid material, an accumulation of the sebum of natural secretion of the oil or sebaceous gland. I suppose the wen forms as a consequence of occlusion of the sebaceous duct, and just why that happens I don't know—it is a greater wonder it happens so rarely, considering the vast number of such sebaceous glands that pour their oil upon the skin through the ducts which usually empty in the well of the hair shaft. It is a simple matter for the doctor to make a little incision over the lump and shell out the sac, under local anesthesia. Neglected, a wen is likely to become inflamed or infected, and then its removal is more troublesome.

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

CUTTING THE TOURIST MELON

Washington, D. C. — Everybody, from the man who sells you gas to the officer and magistrate who arrest and fine you for making injudicious use of it, and including hotel men, proprietors of tourists' homes and camps, vendors of hot dogs and drinks, all those in the automobile service, repair, and accessories business, purveyors of amusement in its myriad forms, and a host of others, not forgetting the omnipresent bootlegger, is getting ready to take a whack at the motor tourist melon of 1928, which promises to be bigger and juicier than ever before.

Just how big and how juicy it will be is essentially a matter of speculation, since there are no records from which it can be ascertained exactly how many people take automobile pleasure trips during a given period or exactly how much money they spend.

However, an estimate has been made by the American Motorist, the agency that has access to the best information available, and it is an impressive one. It is based upon the belief that the tourist business this year will show a 10 per cent increase over that of last year, and this belief is warranted by the fact that 1927 was a better year than 1926 by 12 per cent. On that basis fully 44,000,000 people are expected to hit the road on vacation and recreation tours during 1928 and they will scatter dollars as they go to a grand total of more than $2,600,000,000.

That, as they say in Wall Street where they know all about melons and melon-cutting, is some melon! It is a sum greater by a hundred millions or so than the total expenditures of the Federal Government for a year, exclusive of disbursements on account of the public debt and other special purposes. It is more than the wholesale value of all the motor vehicles produced in the United States in a year. It would pay the entire cost many times over of the projected flood-prevention work in the Mississippi. It is three-fourths as much money as there was in circulation in this country last year.

DIVIDED INTO TWO GROUPS
Motor vacationists are divided into two groups — those who patronize hotels en route and at the resorts they visit, and those who camp out or avail themselves of the furnished cottages in tourist camps. Of the first group it is estimated that there will be, in round numbers, 32,000,000 this year, and of the second, 12,000,000. The figures as given for last year were, respectively 29,000,000 and 11,000,000.

Naturally the hotel tourists will spend the major part of the $2,600,000,000 because they are greater in number and because theirs is the more expensive way of indulging in a motor vacation. In fact, it is said that they will pay two-thirds of the bill. Their expenses are placed at $7.50 per day each, and they are given an average of 10 days each for their trips. Many of them, doubtless, will not spend that much when they are in large family parties, but many of them will spend a great deal more, and the average is said to be conservative. Some of them will probably want to know where they can go and get by with an expenditure of only $1.50 per day.

The other group — the tenters and patrons of the cottage camps — will spend less per day individual, $3.30 being the amount allocated to them, but they will spend much more time on their trips than will the hotel tourists and in the end their per capita expenses will be a little heavier, or $1,200,000,000 for the group.

Estimated expenditures of both groups, of course, include all expenses, such as lodging, food, amusements, operation and maintenance of cars etc. When that is taken into consideration it does not seem such a stupendous bill that they will be paying.

Nor is it a matter for amazement that motoring America should spend more than three and a half billions on its annual holiday, for not all of that represents an additional or extra item in the individual or family budget. It will be remembered that all of those motoring tourists would be spending a large part of that money if they remained at home, some of them would be spending fully as much, and others even more. They have to eat when they are at home, they will patronize amusements, and their automobiles will be in operation, with resultant costs that approximate touring costs. In the end, the price they pay for healthful recreation, for beautiful scenery, for visits to historic shrines, and for novel and interesting experiences is not so great.

ALL SECTIONS TO GET A SLICE
Almost every section of the country will get a slice of this motor tourist melon. Florida and Southern California, and the long stretch of the South and Southwest between, have been or are getting theirs from those sufficiently endowed with worldly goods to be able to go a-vacationing in the wintertime. Come summer, and the roads everywhere will be lined with cars.

In the East, mountain, river, bay, and coast resorts, and innumerable spots of beauty or historic interest, will draw their share of the millions of spenders and the billions they spend. Up in New England they understand full well the value of their motorist visitors, for in Maine, for example, statistics have been gathered showing that the average season expenditure per person for 331 parties last year was $89.53. Those figures are cited in support of the estimate as to what motor tourists in general spend.

In the Middle West the lake region bids fair to be more popular than ever. It is said, and in the far West and Northwest the national parks, forests, and monuments will be the principal drawing cards. Not a few of the tourists who trek northward all along the line from Maine to the Pacific coast will cross the international

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

LACK OF APPETITE MAY BE SIGN OF ANEMIA

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

An investigator has found that in grown-up people the most stubborn and resistant cases of loss of appetite are associated with anemia. One of the most promising signs of improvement in a person who has been sick and anemic is a return of appetite. It is estimated that the students of the University of Rochester in New York found that liver, kidney and muscle meat were of special value in the treatment of various forms of experimental anemia, indeed far more efficient than milk or similar food substances.

More recently investigators in Boston and in other places have proved definitely that the use of a liver diet is of the greatest value in the treatment of pernicious anemia. Because the eating of large amounts of raw liver was found to be difficult, an extract has been prepared of which a very small amount is equivalent to a large amount of raw liver.

An investigator has now compared the gains in weight of children who are undernourished because of lack of appetite when the children were given various diets or medicines. The use of cod liver oil and of iron preparations was compared with the introduction of liver, beef steak and kidney into the diet. At least three times a week it was found that the latter procedure was far more efficient than the others in bringing a return of appetite and a gain in weight. This does not mean that the cod liver oil and iron are useless, but rather that the fresh calf's liver, broiler beef steak and lamb's kidneys have distinct value in building up an undernourished child and in restoring its appetite.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Leaves from the week's notebook: Dropped in on a little party, Blanche Mehaffey was giving in her Ambassador suite and again was reminded of the Cinderella. Three years ago she was a Ziegfeld glorification. The movies discovered her and she was getting along very nicely when along came a millionaire. She returns as Mrs. George Hausen. Her husband owns a large African hunting preserve and they are en route to joust with elephants, lions and such. And the quarters of the pretty choline was decorated with picturesquely garbed potentates from Morocco, Algiers, Capetown and way points.

And so, in the evening, to water Paul Specht go Oriental. They're all doing it this season. For Chinese cafes are now the "life" of Broadway and the only night resorts that are "cleaning up." Broadway is lined with gay chop suey signs, the best orchestras are retained, the entertainment is fair and sometimes good and the prices are such that the clerks, bookkeepers and such can take their best girls. Thus does Broadway follow in the wake of the Main Streets of the nation for, if my memory serves me, the night life of so important a city as Cleveland, O., rotated about the Chinese cafes. Anyway the Jardin Royal now boasts Specht's orchestra in bright lights. And, by coincidence, the location is that which just one season ago, housed Paul Whiteman's club.

Picked up an evening paper to find that Harry Hersfield, cartoonist and after-dinner wit, had at last gone columnist. And his opening line read: "This starts my Broadway column and ends my home life." Which is no jest.

To theater to see Ina Claire, the worship of whom was tenderly willed me by James W. Dean, onetime conductor of this department. And she was playing in Maugham's "Our Betters." And how!

So, at midnight, to the opening of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds of 1928" at the Club Ambassadors, which once belonged to Otto Kahn's little boy, Roger. And the event is what they like to call "gala." But that which pleased me most was to see Fannie Peter Dunne "going night club" at a ring-side seat. So I said to the Lorelei at my right, "This is the famous Mr. Dooley." But she had never heard of Mr. Dooley. Yet they say this younger generation is so bright. And Fannie Ward was there, and some wisecracker asked if they'd checked her go-cart. And Patsy Ruth Miller, of the movies, was dancing about. And there were a couple of hundred people who mean something in New York. Which means that no one ever heard of them east or west of Broadway. Yet, in spite of the gaiety, it did seem to me that the ghost of Florence Mills still haunted "the Blackbirds."

It is related that at Fannie Ward's most recent birthday party a guest asked for permission to take off his coat. His suggestion was frowned at. "Then will you please blow out a couple dozen of those candles, the room's getting overheated," he remarked.

FEDERAL STANDARD ON PLATINUM WANTED

Platinum-smiths and Jewelers Looking for Protection from Buyer

New York—(AP)—A federal stamp of approval on platinum is being sought by platinum-smiths and jewelers of the United States in an effort to safeguard the platinum purchaser just as gold and silver buyers are now assured of quality by "sterling" or karat marks. State laws regulating the quality of platinum have been passed this year in Illinois and New York, and a bill is now pending in congress to make the safeguard nationwide.

Platinum, the most precious of metals, is mined in very small quantities, the annual output being about 150,000 ounces, less than 10,000 pounds. Its scarcity is in itself a temptation to reduce the quality by the introduction of alloys.

Today 60 per cent of the platinum mined is used for jewelry, while the rest is turned over to science. Electricity, physics, chemistry, radio, medicine and dentistry have found platinum indispensable. Its great strength and its pliability make it valuable in delicate experiments that cannot be performed with gold or silver.

Most of the skilled platinum-smiths in the world are in the United States, most of them in New York and New Jersey. Early in the history of the metal in this country, the nation's vast wealth makes it the foremost market.

For many years the chief source of platinum was in the Ural mountains in Russia. Early in the history of the metal in this country, the nation's vast wealth makes it the foremost market. Evidence of the use of platinum in South America centuries before the coming of Columbus have been discovered recently. Earthen finger rings and pins are in excellent condition. Early Spanish adventures in South America used platinum to counterfeit the accepted gold and silver coins of European countries until those nations placed the penalty of death upon those who used such methods.

FACTS ABOUT WISCONSIN

Timber originally covered six out of every seven acres of Wisconsin's land area. Early in the history of our total land area of 35,362,840 acres, forests in early times covered 30,080,000 acres. Of all our neighbor states, only Minnesota and Michigan exceeded our original forest area, but both these states are larger than Wisconsin. Today nearly half our original forests have been removed, but this half included nearly all of the almost unbroken forests that once covered some forty counties extending from Shoboyean north and west across the state. Here stood our seemingly inexhaustible forests of white pine. Here were numerous fast flowing rivers and streams for log driving. Here were ideal sites for the saw mills that for many years gave Wisconsin important rank among national lumber producers, and that for thirty years made lumbering the leading industry in the Dodge State. Of the 17,800,000 acres still carrying a stand of timber, about two thirds are wood land pastures or farm wood lots and cut-over areas. In 1927 our acreage in wood land pastures was 4,131,116, in farm wood lots and cut-over areas was 7,681,127, in remaining forests 7,681,437. In 1899 there were 1,033 sawmills in operation in Wisconsin, in 1925 the number had shrunk to 234 mills. In 1899 a total cut was 3,889,166,000 feet of lumber of which white pine constituted 1,310,181,000 feet, or more than two thirds. Our cut in 1925 was 1,068,612,000 feet—a shrinkage of about 60 per cent in twenty-five years. In 1907 our hemlock cut, 785,322,000 feet, exceeded our white pine cut of 656,239,000 feet, and hemlock has declined much less rapidly than white pine since that year. In 1925 our hardwood cut for the first time exceeded our softwood cut. In 1925 two hardwoods, maple and birch, more than equalled our total cut of hemlock, cedar, hemlock, spruce, tamarack and white pine lumber. The states that now produce more lumber than Wisconsin are 1st, Washington; 2nd, Oregon; 3rd, Louisiana; 4th, Mississippi; 5th, California and 6th, Arkansas.

Notice of a new counterfeit $20 federal reserve note, being circulated, was received by F. F. Wetters, acting postmaster, Monday. Amazing what this simple change in diet can accomplish!

Make the personal health test and prove it!

THIS health test isn't for sick people. It is for people who, like yourself, are outwardly well. People who are carrying on their daily work, yet who, for some strange reason, have lost some of the joy in living that should be theirs. Some of them don't sleep as they should. Some are irritable and depressed when they should be happy. Some suffer from headaches and indigestion.

Make this simple change in diet: Give up caffeine—let Postum be your mealtime drink for thirty days! Then measure your physical gains! See how soundly you sleep! See how refreshed and alert you are in the morning! No more restless nights, no more draggy, headachy days! You'll feel worlds better!

A delicious drink, too!

You'll lose nothing in mealtime enjoyment by changing to Postum. Instead, you'll find it a hot, hearty drink with a rich, distinctive flavor—a flavor millions prefer to that of any other drink.

Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, prepared by boiling. Both are the same delightful drink—made of roasted whole wheat and bran. No trace of any artificial stimulant in them! Both cost much less than most other mealtime drinks. Order today—start the 30-day test!

AUTO HAS BIG PLACE AMONG U. S. EXPORTS

Car Manufacturer and Wheat Grower Supply Almost 30 Per Cent of All Exports

In a bulletin received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, the Foreign Commerce department of the United States says that an analysis of the world trade of the United States for 1927 shows that the cotton grower, the automobile manufacturer and the wheat grower supply almost 30 per cent of the total exports of $4,884,565,733 which this country sold to other parts of the world.

The automobile has become firmly sandwiched between cotton and wheat as an important export commodity and the year just closed shows that it is constantly moving upward in the scale. Automobile exports increased from $320,172,000 in 1926 to $383,314,

000 in 1927, an increase of 21.3 per cent. This is greater than the increase for any other of the more important export commodities during 1927. Singularly enough automobile exports increased in exactly the same proportions, going from $27,516,000 in 1926 to $33,737,000 in 1927.

The review of foreign trade for the year also confirms the assertion that the United States is exporting more of manufactured articles. Exports of finished manufactures jumped from $1,956,784,000 in 1926 to $1,981,217,000 in 1927, a gain of nearly $25,000,000. More than half the total exports for 1927 came under the two groups, finished manufactures and semi-manufactures.

Mrs. Russell Tells Girls 'Be Different'

BY ALLENE SUMNER
Speaking of girls and their dresses, Mrs. Bertrand Russell tells girls that the way to be most attractive and successful in getting a man is to be different and vivid and individual. "Any girl can get a nice smooth marmelade, wear nude hose, and a short skirt and patent-leather shoes," she says. "But it takes a different girl to dare wear scarlet or green stockings, wear her hair long, and go out in the rain in an old macintosh. She's the girl who'll get attention."

THREE LIVELY TALES TOLD FOR GIRL READERS

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Author of "The Magic Map," etc.
FOR NEA Service

LATELY it seems as though I had unintentionally neglected speaking of books for young girls, and I give me much satisfaction to realize how this particular variety of literature has improved. No longer must I put off this group of books. From Doubleday-Doran have come three volumes for girls (and their brothers) around the ages of nine to thirteen. These have fresh, beautiful settings and are told with liveliness and sprightliness.

If anything, "Bibi," by Karin Michaelis, illustrated by Hedvig Collin, is in too much of a staccato vein, and the publishers might very well have left out the discussion of expense at the conclusion, but it is certainly worth reading in spite of these drawbacks.

Bibi is a little Danish girl, who is allowed to run away whenever she pleases. Her adventures, observations, experiences are told with plenty of spirit and a good idea of the country is left with the reader at the end. "Dawnright Dancer," by Caroline Dale Snedeker, illustrated by Maginel Wright Barney, is a tale of old Nantucket, told with a flavor as keen and salty as sea air itself. "Children of the Mountain Eagle," by Elizabeth Cleveland Miller, illustrated by Maud and Miska Petersham, has for its setting the Alaskan mountains, and if you are feeling any mid-winter slump I advise this story for whisking you into customs, scenery, characters that will literally invigorate you.

"The House Without Windows," by Barbara Newhall Follett (Knopf), has just appeared in a second edition. Its author is a girl of nine years or so, and it is no sophisticated hoax. It is imaginative and original and sustained, and would prove of interest both to those who wish to understand the young people themselves.

Nor have I finished other books which should be included here. They will have to be in the serials, and "continued in our next."

LET'S GO BACK TO COTTON PRINTS ADVISES ALLENE

BY ALLENE SUMNER

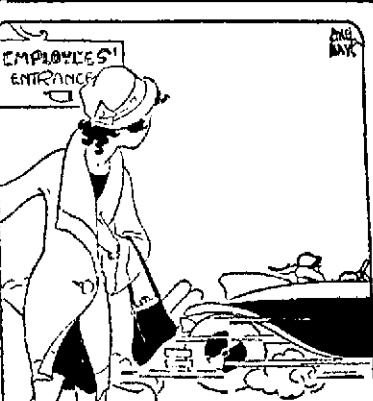

Springtime is all bloom in the stores. Wash frocks of pink and blue and green and lavender and canary yellow bloom in the store aisles like tulips or hyacinths. Our best store has a display in its rear windows which overlook "the poor section," of cotton print frocks, which are things of beauty, if I ever saw such. White backgrounds are besprigged with sprays of wisteria, or pale pink ones are abloom with white dogwood clusters, yellow ones are sprigged with blue violets, and pink canterbury bells nod all over pale blue frocks. And they're only $5.95 each! But they are displayed only on "the poor side of the street," and are labeled "house dresses."

Meanwhile mothers trying to keep up a family of six on $30 a week or less, struggle to manage silk dresses for their female offspring. And such lovely dresses for $5.95! But nobody'll wear cotton except around home!

Televox And House Work Is Made Easy

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

VERY housewife in the land will bless Mr. R. J. Wensley for inventing Mr. Televox.

Mr. Televox is the mechanical man who does your chores. He will sweep, turn off the light, answer the bell and telephone, and play maid in the latest accepted form.

Now this benevolent gentleman, who looks more like an Ivanhoe knight than a housekeeper's assistant, with his metal suit and his headpiece of steel, is as yet in the primer class of domestic science. What he knows is wonderful, but what he doesn't know as yet, would fill several books. But he is going to learn—that is the encouraging part of it—even to talk, promises Mr. Wensley.

We should not be surprised to hear in the near future of Mr. Televox carrying off a master's degree in cooking, dish-washing, laundry-work, nursing, and even taking a fourth hand at bridge.

"Quod erat demonstrandum!" That is the only Latin phrase I can remember and I must air it occasionally. For those who remember another one, it means "Show us!" We hope Mr. Wensley will.

But even so, should this philanthropic young inventor find a slow pupil, in his brain-child, and the automatic man turn out to be a poor cook with no taste for seasoning, or slow at the ironing—even so, I move that every woman rise up and give Mr. Wensley a vote of thanks. He is one man evidently who can see the woman's side, and he is trying to help her out. Most inventions are man-savers. Few are wife-savers.

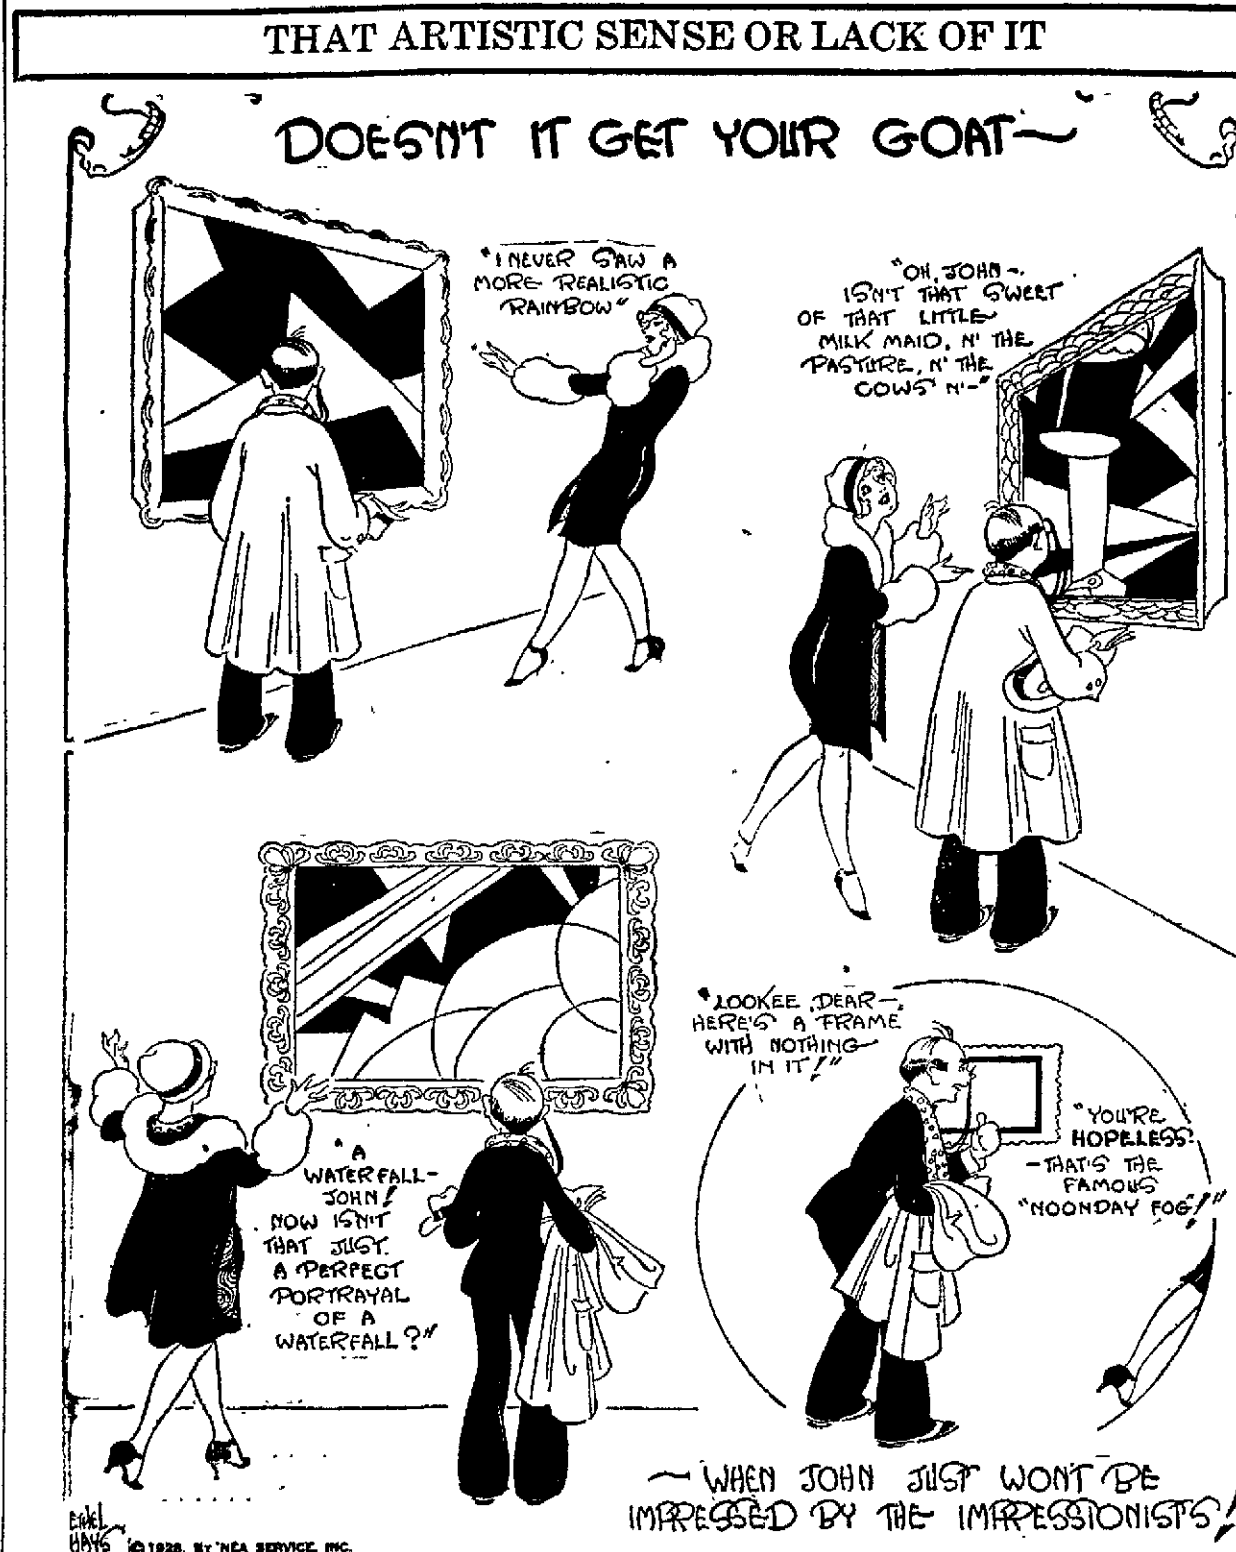

Personally I have only one fear. If Mr. Televox becomes letter-perfect, will father snatch him? Will he send him off for Sunday papers and cigars, make him clean the car, drive him to town, press his clothes, carry out the ashes, and shovel off snow?

Will mother ever see him? I'm afraid not, unless Mr. Wensley invents a shutoff affair that will put the workday gentleman out of commission when a masculine voice gives the command.

GOLD BEADS AND EARRINGS ARE LOCAL FASHIONS

Jewelry, fascinating always, is particularly alluring to the young girl today and to the ladies who follow fashion trends. Just now local jewelers indicate that earrings, which have been good all winter are better now than ever. (Drops, hoops, buttons all are equally popular.) Enamelled bags for the smart women predict the jewelers and Janet Brown, catching sight of vanities was told that vintages have lost in popularity. However, another jeweler said they have never been so popular. Which all goes to prove—that you can't prove a thing.

— WHEN JOHN JUST WON'T BE IMPRESSED BY THE IMPRESSIONISTS —

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dearest Mother:

I'm glad you told me about Betty. I didn't know. The girls and I don't correspond much. Of course I'll send the layette and ask Alan to send a check. I don't want him to think he has to be sneaky about it and with things as you say they are I know he wants to help.

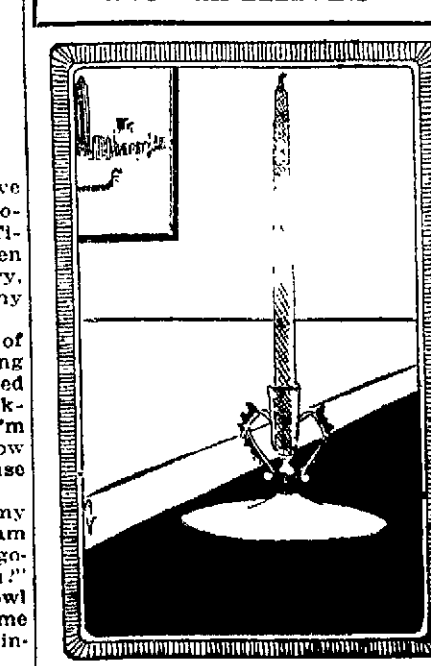

But I think Florence is quite right to say Betty shouldn't have children if she can't give them a proper start in life. Wrecking your health for them isn't fair to the kids, either. When they're growing up they like parents they can be proud of and not mothers and fathers who are old before their time.

I shall wait until we can afford a nursery and a nurse and then our children will be real blessings. Such children are much brighter types than those who are brought up haphazardly. Everyone knows that. It's merely a matter of common sense.

Some of my friends go as far as to say that eugenics should be compulsory but I'm inclined to think that the difference between man and animals will always interfere with that. But even if we do still mate for love we can refuse to bring up our children like guinea pigs. And if there's anything that robs motherhood of its beauty it's the sight of a broken-down woman with a bad-mannered brat at her heels.

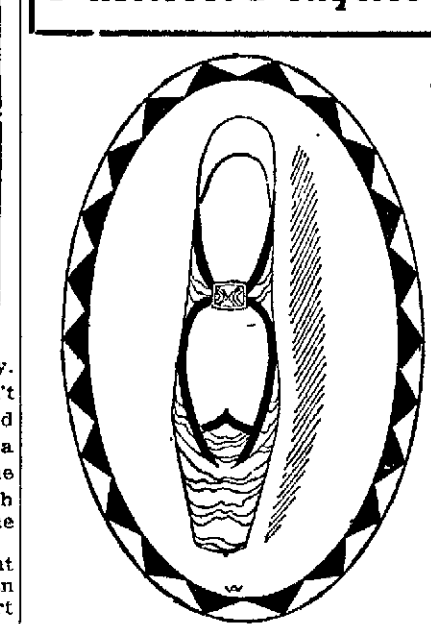

There's nothing noble about indulging your ego in having offspring when you can't give them a fair chance. And we recognize that it is largely almost entirely in fact, a matter of ego. Man likes to reproduce just to see himself. Most people don't.

TOO MANY DATES FOR AMERICANS SAY VISITORS

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Would we enjoy life more in this country if we had fewer "pleasures"? Visitors from other lands returning home always express their amazement at the way we whirl from lunch to golfing from golfing to a tea, from tea to a dinner, from dinner to a night club, and from a night club to breakfast some place.

We arrive tired, devoid of anticipation, and badly dressed at whatever function we attend, they say, because there have been too many previous ones.

I believe they are right. I don't know one person who doesn't count the chance for an evening at home with book and a radio as a blessed privilege all too rare in a day which gets everyone dated up for this thing and that thing until the week is gone and one knows it.

care a rap about children until they have one of their own. That means it's purely themselves they're loving. One child is about as adorable as another but try to get a parent to admit that the Jones' Sonny is as attractive as little Rollo and see what happens.

I imagine this shocks you, mother dear, but you know it's just one of the truths that we've found out by not being too prudish to look life straight in the eye. Life's really such a glorious adventure that it deserves to be studied and lived intelligently. It's only man's blindness that messes it up.

I don't mean to say that modern married people don't love children just as much as any generation of parents ever did, but we do claim the right to govern their birth and upbringing in the light of our broader knowledge.

Feeling you don't suffer from the shock, I am

With dearest love, MARYE.

FACTS vs. IDEAS

It is not an idea that we have the largest dental business in the Fox River Valley, it is a fact. Neither is it an idea that we give you the best grade of dentistry at the lowest prices, this also is a fact. Our large volume of business enables us to offer you these prices.

Pasteurized Milk Is Gaining In Every City

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has made a survey and the results are as follows: In 1915 only 40 per cent of cities having a population between 10,000 and 25,000 had Pasteurized Milk; while in 1921 61 per cent reported such milk. Even in cities below 10,000 Pasteurization is quite common. Keep these facts in mind. There is a good reason for it—it's the protection of your customers' health — by Proper Pasteurization. If you consume raw milk — think it over and decide for yourself what the answer is. No one, but yourself, is the winner or loser.

SULLIVAN SAYS HE AGAIN WILL SEEK ELECTION AS MAYOR

Incumbent Makes Up His Mind to Enter Race—Copp Still Sitting on Fence

Kaukauna—As the spring election draws nearer the number of candidates for city offices increases. On Monday Mayor W. C. Sullivan and George Egan announced their intentions of seeking reelection to the offices of mayor and treasurer, respectively. Both have served the city for one term and will make this campaign on their past record.

Mayor Sullivan's definite announcement raised the number of candidates to three, the other two being Lester J. Brenzel and R. M. Radsch. Mr. Radsch took out his nomination papers on Monday morning. Those who expected Charles E. Raughter, former Kaukauna mayor, to run again, were told Monday that he was "positively not a candidate for mayor" at this election. W. H. Copp, another possible candidate, when approached said he might "possibly run."

The office of city treasurer so far is being contested by George Egan, the present treasurer, and Joseph Dietzler, former hardware merchant. Mr. Egan is a resident of the north side and Mr. Dietzler makes his home on the south side.

William Powers is circulating his nomination papers for supervisor of the Third ward. He will run against Jacob Lummerding, the present supervisor.

Charles Collins is another new candidate. Mr. Collins is the first man to signify his intention of running for alderman of the Fourth ward. It is quite probable that he will have several rivals before March 23, the last day for filing nomination papers.

In the Fourth ward A. P. Anderson and Max Streich will be candidates for the office of supervisor. Mr. Anderson seeks reelection.

Officers still without candidates are first ward supervisor and Fifth ward supervisor.

Kaukauna—Care of raising a family of 7 proved to be too much for R. H. Even the help of the kindy if some what inefficient mother failed to keep the family together in their new home at the police station.

Recently there was added to the chief's other worries a stray German police dog mother and her flock of seven young, all healthy and playful pups. The chief smilingly assumed his new duties and attempted to raise the puppies in a room in the rear of the police station. Here several quarts of milk were given to them every day and Mr. McCarty hoped that soon the owner of the police dog would come to claim her. Nothing of the sort happened and finally the chief decided that a police station was not a fit place to bring up police dogs, and especially German police dogs, and they were sent out to Mr. Berkers.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of sator oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

COPS WILL GET YOU AFTER THURSDAY IF CAR IS UNLICENSED

Police Ordered to Pick Up Drivers of Cars Without 1928 Plates

Appleton car owners who do not have 1928 license plates on their machines Thursday morning will be arrested and taken into court, George T. Prim, chief of police, warned Tuesday.

"On and after Thursday the members of my department have instructions to bring in all motorists who do not display 1928 license plates or sufficient proof they have sent for them," Chief Prim said.

"The state is lenient and motorists have two and one-half months in which to secure their licenses and they can have no excuse after March 15," the chief pointed out.

At the same time the drive is started against those who do not have 1928 license plates will begin to check drivers to see whether they are carrying drivers' licenses. Motorists will be stopped at random and asked to display their permits.

Chief Prim said the driver's license must bear the signature of the possessor. There is a space on the card provided for a signature and it is through this signature that the officers will be able to check the licenses, the chief said.

STAGE And SCREEN

"STUDENT PRINCE" A HUGE TRIUMPH FOR THE SCREEN

"The Student Prince"—Ramon Novarro—Norma Shearer—Ernst Lubitsch.

With such a combination, it would seem, the ultimate had been reached in the possibilities of the drama of the screen.

And to see the huge Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer triumph, showing at the Elite Theatre for 4 more days, is more than a mere entertainment, gripping and enthralling as that may be. It is a life experience.

The play has thundered down the years as one of the greatest dramas of the stage. It has been played in every land. It is a classic of classics. It has helped to make the fame of Mansfield, Boucicault and other stars of the footlights.

Ramon Novarro, in the role of the prince and the girl in the inn, their love the happy days in Heidelberg and the tragedy that follows, are worked out as the same simple story of the stage play—but set in gigantic spectacles, in court ceremonies so huge that they oppress—as they did the young prince in the story. Huge castles, great ceremonies; pomp and spectacle—these are the backgrounds of the play.

Charm, grace, and beauty—these are the backgrounds of the play. Jean Hersholt, as Dr. Juttner, the tutor, portrays his role in a remarkable manner, and Bobby Mack, as the comical Kellermann, is a revelation. Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Edythe Chapman, George K. Arthur, Lionel Belmore, Philippe De Lacy—the cast bristles with famous names—perform wonders in artistry. Perhaps they too were inspired by memories of Mansfield and the great ones of the stage who played in the great romance long before the screen was thought of.

And now their beloved play is a new classic in the new art—the art of the silver sheet.

GANGSTERS WEAR DIAMONDS. POINTS OUT CHANEY

Gangsters love diamonds. Which is why Lon Chaney, in his role as the gangster czar in "The Big City," Metro Goldwyn Mayer's sensational romance of the underworld at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, today wears a huge collection of gems—while in private life he never wears jewelry.

"Gangsters," he says, "always wear diamonds. For one thing, a diamond can be turned into cash quickly in a getaway—so perhaps the fashion is a most practical one."

Chaney plays a gangster role in a sensational plot, with Marceline Day as the heroine, a shopgirl ensnared in his activities, while James Murray plays her sweetheart, a young gangster. Betty Compson, Mathew Betz, John George, Virginia Pearson, Lew Short, Walter Percival and others of note are in the cast. Tod Browning directed the play from his own original, dramatized by Walden Young. A sensational holdup in a night club and other thrilling detail marks the new play.

ALL-AMERICAN CAST OF "THE GIRL FROM CHICAGO"

Warner Bros. "The Girl from Chicago," coming Wednesday to Fischer's Appleton Theatre for a run of two days is acclaimed as one of the really big melodramas of the year. The makers of the picture come from all over the United States. Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy, the stars, were born respectively in Iowa and Montana. William Russell hails from New York City, Carol Nye from Ohio, Erville Alderson from Missouri, and Kay Enright, the director, from Indiana.

Corporal Jiggs

Oh, it ain't all beer and skittles, fancy care and fancy vittles. There is tougher moments, Budd, 'Vot I mean.

When I chased a blonde stenog they cut off my chow and grog for conduct unbecom'g.

—From the "Songs of the Dogs of War."

Miami Beach, Fla.—It can be said of Corporal Jiggs II that he can be found at the very scene of any situation which the Marines may have in hand.

And if this seems to call for an explanation, know then that Corporal Jiggs II is the pedigreed English bulldog that muscled the Marines—the same Jiggs that First Lieutenant James Joseph Tunney, better known as "Gene," gave to the Corps.

What brings Jiggs into the lime light at this moment is the fact that Marine Headquarters at Washington has delivered into the hands of the world champ, at his training quarters here, the official record book of his protegee.

Wherein are to be found two items responsible for the discipline to which this important dogdom personality is now being subjected.

The first of these entries reads: "Sept. 1, 1927, Marine Barracks,

TREASURY CAN MEET NEW APPROPRIATIONS

See No Trouble Ahead if Present Income Continues, Department says

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's treasury will be able to meet the inroads made on it by the $750,000 appropriation for the board of control, made by the recent special session, if receipts continue normal throughout the rest of the biennium, according to the treasury department.

The appropriation will take away $750,000 from funds available to the highway department, the treasurer's office says, but points out that there is some margin on hand for the highways than is needed, so that the work on Wisconsin's roads will not suffer.

Should the state's receipts fall below the amount expected within the next several months, the board of control appropriation might cause a deficit, making necessary the levying of a tax, the treasury department says.

Such tax, under statutes, is to be levied by the secretary of state whenever it becomes apparent that the state's revenues are not going to be sufficient to take care of all appropriations made for the two-year period.

However a deficit may always be avoided, the treasury department says, by curtailing the building program, which action the governor is authorized to take whenever it seems advisable to him to do so.

Canvassers' Views

An adjourned meeting of the city council of March 7, will be held in the city hall Wednesday evening. The special purpose of the meeting is to canvass election returns. However, other business may be legally presented at the meeting.

Quantico, Va.—Biting the ice man five days solitary confinement.

"Emm," mused Tunney, "Not entirely inexcusable. He might have mistaken the ice man for Red Grange and wished to start him on a sixty-yard run."

It was the second entry that took the champ's wind as no Dempsey blow ever took it. This one reads:

"Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.—For chasing a stenographer down the hall, transferred to Tunney training camp for proper training."

Not so good, mused Tunney. Yet, taken by and large, Jiggs II, who followed the celebrated Sergeant Major Jiggs I, is not doing so bad for a dog that hasn't had much experience in Washington. More than one dignitary has been known to chase a stenographer down the hall.

To get a bit better acquainted with Jiggs' past.

He's a regular enlisted Marine. He has worn the scarlet and gold of the corps nearly a year now. He gets paid and draws ration allowance as an enlisted man. He has won his promotion to the grade of corporal.

His pedigree title, for he comes from a long line of blooded English bulldogs, was "Silent White Richards," but that was promptly replaced by "Jiggs II" when he joined out as a Marine.

His service record book describes him as follows:

"Examined: March 22, 1927. Hair: White, with brindle markings. Complexion: Good. Height: 1 foot, 3 inches. Weight: 45 pounds.

On the conclusion of his service at the training camp, Tunney recommended Jiggs for promotion and the service record book contains a copy of Jiggs' warrant as a regular corporal for the Marine corps.

He has served at the recruiting station, New York, at headquarters in Washington, at Quantico, Va., Division Headquarters, Marine Barracks, Chicago, and at present is stationed at Parris Island, S. C.

The latest entry gives him these grades:

"Military efficiency, excellent; obedience, excellent; sobriety, excellent."

He is living down that episode of the stenographer, as well as an occurrence two months ago when he "did maliciously assault, without provocation, his superior officer," and was sentenced to thirty days at receiving barracks for special training.

JACQUOT, KADING DISMISSED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

Men Charged With Conspiracy to Defraud in Obtaining Milk Are Released

Criminal charges of conspiracy to defraud and obtain milk under false pretenses, against W. W. Jacquot and Martin Kading, former officers of the bankrupt Valley Dairy company, were dismissed by County Judge Fred V. Heinenmann in circuit court Monday afternoon for lack of evidence.

The men were arrested Feb. 18 on warrants issued by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, at the request of a group of farmers.

The preliminary hearing had been scheduled before Municipal Judge Theodore Berg but the defendant's attorney filed an affidavit of prejudice and Judge Berg transferred the case to Judge Heinenmann.

Jacquot and Kading were charged with four counts. The first was that they conspired to defraud by issuing worthless checks. Two counts charged they obtained milk from Thomas Byrnes and Arnold Hooyman, town of Freedom farmers, under false pretenses, and the fourth charged they conspired to defraud by obtaining milk without funds to pay for it.

Judge Heinenmann ruled the evidence presented by District Attorney Lonsdorf was not sufficient to warrant binding the defendants over to trial.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustre almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folk aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

His service record book contains a copy of Jiggs' warrant as a regular corporal for the Marine corps.

Ranch Won By Gambling Given To Texas College

Fort Worth, Tex.—(P)—A cattle ranch won in a poker game now is contributing to the education of Texas youth.

The last legal formality has been completed by which ownership of the 6666 ranch is transferred to Texas Christian University of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Burk Burnett, widow of the late Captain Burk Burnett, deeded the land to the school.

Captain Burnett named his ranch the 6666 in token of the poker hand of four sixes which brought him the property and elevated him from a cowboy to a cattle baron.

When Burnett and Texas were young, he rode his pony to town one pay day and went to a saloon named for its "honest" gaming table. He sat down at one of the "honest tables," and with several months' earnings from cow-punching, he bought chips for a poker game. The last chip clinked into the pot and the captain-cowboy thought it sounded "taps" for his bank roll. But his luck turned and he won several hundred dollars. Then an opponent who had lost every cent made a desperate challenge.

"Burnett, I'll give my ranch against your pile," he said.

"You're on," Burnett answered. "We'll take a deal and a draw."

On the deal, Burnett got two sixes

He discarded three cards and kept the pair. On the draw, he received two more sixes. The four sixes won the ranch.

The 6666 ranch was the foundation of a large fortune, for the land, located in the Texas Panhandle, later produced oil and gas.

SHARKEY-RISKYO BOUT FAILS TO SHOW RIVAL FOR GENE

Austrian Victor Over Boston Tar In Battle Lacking In Real Color

Neither Winner Nor Heeneey Match for Champion; May Call on Jack Again

New York.—(AP)—Whatever "logic" there was in Tex Rickard's campaign to produce a logical contender for Gene Tunney's title was swept out of Madison Square garden Tuesday by the cleaners along with whatever hopes Jack Sharkey had of some time ruling the crowning heights of pugilism.

Theoretically, Johnny Risko, the pudgy Austrian boxer, of Cleveland, stands out Tuesday as the foremost challenger for the title the big machine won and defended in two battles with Jack Dempsey. Almost on a par with Risko stands "Honest Tom" Heeneey, the plugging blacksmith of New Zealand.

But there isn't an ounce of the color or the promoting impressario has sought industriously to either Risko or Heeneey. The baker boy whipped Jack Sharkey decisively in 15 rounds Monday night.

Just as Heeneey's victory was a tame, colorless exhibition of what patient and painstaking endeavor, coupled with an iron constitution, can do so was Risko's victory over Sharkey a most uninteresting brawl that merely dragged everybody concerned into mediocrity.

Nevertheless, Risko and Heeneey stand Tuesday as the survivors of the tournament, having won their way into the ditch order to uncover Tunney's June foe. But the real sufferer appeared to be the promoter himself, who left the garden Monday night with the boots of the discouraged fans drumming in his ears while his mind ruminated to a $1,000,000 contract he holds with Tunney for his next title defense. For there appeared little probability that the crowd of 10,000 would appear in sufficient quantities to watch either Risko or Heeneey do battle with the champion.

From the opening round, the round shock absorber, a veritable balloon-tire of a man, leaped and plunged into Sharkey, belaboring him constantly with a left hook to the body that curled up from his heels. The Boston Salter, hauled far and wide as a last ditch effort to uncover Tunney's June foe. But the real sufferer appeared to be the promoter himself, who left the garden Monday night with the boots of the discouraged fans drumming in his ears while his mind ruminated to a $1,000,000 contract he holds with Tunney for his next title defense. For there appeared little probability that the crowd of 10,000 would appear in sufficient quantities to watch either Risko or Heeneey do battle with the champion.

In the end, that left hook, the sole offensive threat; Risko carried, won nine of the fifteen rounds. The short right flush to the heart, Sharkey's best punch, coupled with a left hook, won six heats for the Boston man, who just a year ago was considered the greatest of the younger heavyweights. Round after round, with not variation, the batters stuck to their favorite styles and the fans yawned. Risko made his best showing in the second, eighth, ninth, and tenth and thirteenth rounds when he hung his left with equal abandon on Sharkey's ribs and chin. In the tenth, Sharkey went down for a count of four but it was more of a slip than from the effects of punches and he assured the referee—although nobody appeared particularly interested—that he was "all right."

While the fight left Heeneey and Risko on the top of the contending heap, that part of the elimination tournament was settled months ago in Detroit where Heeneey won a decision over Johnny that was as colorless as though it was part of Rickard's own program.

For the time being, Rickard plans to match Heeneey and Risko. But he frankly admits that his fingers are crossed, that there probably won't be any title fight in June after all, and that if Tunney does defend his crown this year "Jack Dempsey must be in the other corner."

HOTCHKISS PICKED ON SECOND QUINT

Badger Guard from Oshkosh Places on Coaches All-star Five

Chicago.—(AP)—Bennie Osterbaan of Michigan and Charles "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue were unanimous choice of the Big Ten coaches for forward and center in a compilation of all-conference players Tuesday. In a field of great scoring centers, with only a few forwards pressing the tip-off men this season for high scores, these two stood out. Osterbaan, winning the individual point scoring honors for the season.

As a running mate for Osterbaan, the selections were divided among four forwards, with Wells of Indiana receiving as many votes as all the others combined. He also received votes as a guard, though fewer than Correll of Indiana and Kemmer of Purdue.

All five of these players figured heavily in the scoring plays of the teams. The second team selected of the coaches edged toward the top outstanding backguards of the season, Hotchkiss of Wisconsin and Hoeger of Chicago. These two were almost without competition for the grand places on the second team.

Walter of Northwestern, the rival of Murphy as a sophomore center sensation, was almost universally chosen as a forward for the second team, the tip-off key falling to Branch McCracken of Indiana. Harneson of Purdue was picked for Walter's unerring mate.

Eleven forwards were listed in the coaches' selections, five centers and thirteen guards. The list of all-conference teams of the coaches follows:

FIRST TEAM
Osterbaan, Mich. F. Murphy, North. Wells, Ind. F. Harneson, Ind. Murphy, Pur. C. McCracken, Ind. Correll, Ind. G. Hotchkiss, Wis. Kemmer, Pur. G. Hoeger, Chi.

Honorable mention
Fisher, Northwestern; Cummings, Purdue; Wheeler, Purdue; Behr, Wisconsin.

Centers—Foster, Wisconsin; Wilcox, Iowa.

Guards—Harrigan Chapman and McCoy, Michigan; Mills, Illinois; Scheike, Indiana; Doyle, Wisconsin.

ORANGE MUST HALT HERBER TO CONQUER

West Bay Star Can Shoot Baskets Blindfolded on Home Floor

If a certain Mr. Arnie Herber is shooting the coming Friday evening as he did last Friday evening, Coach Joseph Shields' Appleton high school basketball team will find the going plenty hard to finish in a tie for first in the 1928 Fox River Valley conference cage race and probably will be forced to tie for fourth for the year.

An Appleton win in its final Valley game Friday will tie it for third with East Green Bay, not a bad record for a green team, but a loss will tie it for fourth with West Green Bay, the winner. And Appleton playing at West high's "crackerbox," will have plenty trouble putting over a win.

Last Friday, East, one of the best teams in the conference this year and until a few weeks ago a leading contender for first place, lost by a count of 36-14 to West in the crackerbox and Herber alone scored 21 points for West. The all-conference guard is said to know every spot on the home floor as if he were the center himself and he has spent many an hour there for years shooting. Proof of how well he knows that floor for shooting purposes is given in the East West game.

An experienced basketball official who witnessed that game said on the floor as the center tipped the ball to Herber and he shot it with a two arm swing around his guard, without even taking a second glance at the hoop, for a basket. Soon after he threw the ball over his head with a one-hand sweep from the other side. It was that way the entire game, he dropped shot after shot of the sensational variety with a style that made them look easy for anyone, giving the impression that he could do it blindfolded.

STOPPED BEFORE. Appleton stopped Herber three times in two years, in fact every time the teams have met, but that was on larger floors. Johnston stopped him twice last year and Bowly at Army G this year, but the smallest floor was the Bay-Y. M. C. A. gym, much larger than the West high court, to which the Purple Baymen have returned this year. To stop a man on that floor, even with a rival sticking with him the entire game, is hard. For a good long shot artist can score from under his own hoop there if he is used to the short floor and the height of the ceiling, so that he knows the right arch, where a rival would "hit the roof."

To stop him the Appleton man will have to follow him to his own basket at all times, and that will spoil the rest of the Orange defense if not done carefully. Just what strategy Coach Shields will try is not known but local fans hope he will keep his "Herber record" intact by stopping the mighty Herber on his home floor where the task is extra difficult and has been done this year only temporarily by teams such as Oshkosh's team before Janda and Crowell left and Manitowoc. However, the Orange mentor is usually able to adapt his play to stop the enemy and he has plenty of trick plays himself, besides having the small Appleton high gym, similar to Green Bay's to work in for practice this week. The Orange also cannot foul Herber much as he is a star from the free throw line as well as the floor and may win the game from there.

TUESDAY GAMES

Citizens Bank vs. Weber Knits. (postponed).

Fox River vs. Kimberly-Clark.

Whether there will be any regular games in the Appleton Industrial-Commercial Basketball League Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will not be known until the time of the games roll around. The opener, between the Citizens Bank five and the Weber Cozy Knits, battling for third place in the loop, has been postponed because three Weber players will be unable to play.

The second scheduled game is between the Fox River and Kimberly-Clark fives but Kimberly may not appear as it has forfeited its last two league games. If it fails to appear the game will be a forfeit for the Foxmen, bringing them a half game nearer that first place tie with the Coated Paper five. If the regular games are not played, however, two good battles will replace them for the benefit of cage fans of the city.

Office Work No Longer Drudgery For Employees

New York —(P)—The clock strikes five. Throughout the country desks close with a bang; elevators rise empty and descend loaded; doors of office workers are homeward bound—the streets, and countless millions of office workers see homeward bound—through for the day.

They went to work at 9 o'clock; they used to start at 5. They quit at noon on Saturday's they used to work late. In dress and bearing they are kings and queens; once they were drab workers. Their interests are many; once they had time and thought only for work. It is greater in volume and better in quality, yet they have time and energy for after-work activities.

They have shorter hours and better pay. Apparently they are happier and healthier people. How did they do it? They didn't — a million modern machines, known as office appliances, did it for them. Automatic, error-proof, tireless, rapid, efficient, the business machines in a few short years have made it possible virtually to triple the amount of work done daily and to halve the number of persons required to do it.

Business likes the machines evidently, for it spends an estimated $300,000,000 for them yearly, and possibly this estimate is low. The United States not only is the greatest user of such machines, but the greatest manufacturer and exporter.

The bookkeeper with his pen has given way to a machine that works at greater speed, makes no errors and by accumulation shows a dozen important totals almost instantaneously and at will. The mailing clerk controls apparatus that not only prints and cuts wrapping paper, but wraps packages, seals them and stamps or addresses them ready for delivery.

NEW BUSINESSES ARISE

Automatic typewriters have increased the output of the printed word and automatic word counters tell the new total at a glance. Posting machines are made to analyze accounts as well as to keep records. Coin changing, sorting, counting and wrapping machines excel the best cashier in speed and never make his mistakes.

Dictating machines free the stenographer for other work, while addressing machines type letters, including name, address, personal salutation, fac-simile signature and sometimes the body of the letter all at the same time and through the same ribbon. Folding machines fold the letters and pass them on to devices which seal, address and stamp.

The laborious business of signing checks now can be done by machine and payable, once a tedious job, can be made out almost automatically.

The widespread use of the machines has built up businesses within businesses, for the increased demand for carbon, ribbons, ink, paper and other supplies keeps a thousand factories busy. It also has developed classes of specialists, not only in use of the automatic office appliances, but in their invention, manufacture and care.

CHINESE HISTORY IN CONGRESS' LIBRARY

Rare Writings, Lost for More Than a Century, Located at Washington

Washington —(P)—The writings of Tsui Shu, China's first critical historian, which were lost for more than a century, have been discovered in the original edition among the books in the Chinese department of the Library of Congress.

They are believed to have been shipped to America a number of years ago and to have been stacked away on the shelves while scholars scoured libraries in China and Japan for copies.

Arthur Hummel, head of the Chinese department of the library, believes that scholars who are cataloguing the 120,000 Chinese volumes in the library will find many more volumes of rarity and importance in the course of their work. The Library of Congress collection is the largest Chinese library in America.

Tsui Shu lived from 1749 to 1816, rising from extreme poverty to a high position as a scholar and an official of Chekiang province. In his writings he attacked the old concept of a "golden age" of antiquity, in which Chinese rulers were believed to have had great moral virtue, and questioned many ancient works on history. His writings anticipated by more than a century many of the conclusions regarding ancient Chinese history which present day scholars are reaching.

Little was known of Tsui Shu during his life except by a small group of pupils. He lived in retirement, devoting all of his time to his studies and writing. In 1822 his works were published by a number of his pupils. They bore the expense of cutting the wood block type for the book and had five copies of his history printed.

This was about the time of the decline of the Manchu dynasty, and during the years of internal rebellion and dissension all record of the books was lost.

In 1921 Dr. Hu Schih, father of the Chinese renaissance, first discovered a part of the works in a collection of reprints of the writers of Chekiang province. The importance of Tsui Shu was immediately recognized and the discovery created considerable stir in Chinese scholastic circles. A search was begun by scholars for the complete works which were later found in reprint in Japan.

During all this search, one of the five original copies of the books had lain in the files of the congressional library.

Sharks

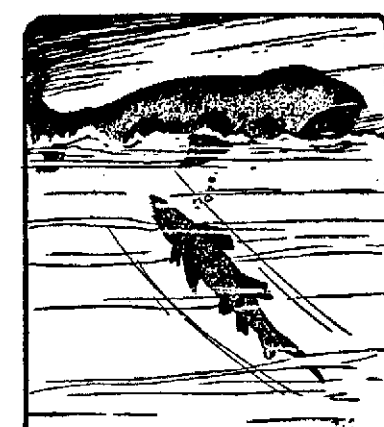

In the appalling ocean depths live those tigers of the sea, the sharks. Many species of sharks are man-eaters, find them where we may. The hammerhead is one of the fiercest of all sharks and is the dread of every man compelled to enter deep water in the Indian ocean. The head is broadened and flattened, with eyes on each side.

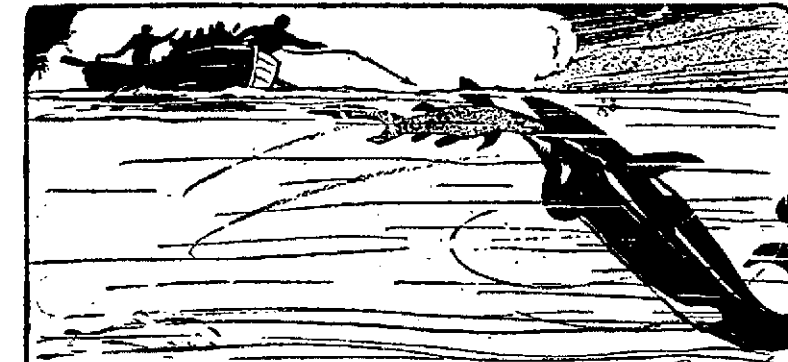

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

The great white shark can bite off a man's leg or sever his body at one snap of its terrible jaws.

The Greenland shark is another ferocious foe to man, but it hunts the whale as a rule, tearing out the giant's tongue.

Ordinarily alert and wary, the Greenland shark is so ravenous a feeder that when tearing the flesh from a struggling whale it may be approached quite close in a boat and harpooned as though it were drugged. Sharks have no bones, their huge frames being mounted on skeletons of exceedingly tough cartilage.

ANTIQUE EXHIBITS PLACED ON DISPLAY

New London Women Have Large Amount of Material for Exhibit at City Hall

New London—The first day of the Arts and Crafts exhibit was very successful and well up to the expectations of the committee in charge, which were busy from early Monday morning until late at night placing and cataloging the large amount of material brought in. It is certain that never before in the history of this community has there been such a large assembly, or has there been such a tribute paid to the days which are gone. Among the interesting pieces found among the handiwork are the quilts loaned by Mrs. George Dawley. One, a quilt called "Lilies of the Valley," is of silk in two shades. Its beauty has been softened by years, though it has seen little actual use. Another is a quilted rose design of exquisite workmanship, its buds padded and every detail worked out with rigid adherence to the natural flower. Many who are experienced in such matters state that these two quilts are very valuable. Mrs. Dawley has thirty-six of these handsome quilts in her home, none of them in use. Her many exhibits at the city hall are well worth seeing. One of the looms which created much amusement was the baby carriage loaned by August Freymuth. The little carriage is set on hand wrought wheels and chassis, and is drawn from the front like a play wagon. The entire vehicle is made of oak and was made by Mr. Freymuth's grandfather, a carpenter. The body has been in recent use and now is covered with light blue silk and enameled white. Its hood is of generous proportions. Mr. Freymuth also brought a toy wagon and several wooden household platters and bowls which were originally used in making butter and bread. The evening was devoted to a short program by the Civic League. Mrs. Charles Archibald Hooper presided. Mrs. Ruda Smith sang two solos which were in keeping with the program. One was "An Old Refrain" and the other was "Among my Souvenirs." Miss Gladys Borchard, cellist and E. Louis Reuter played accompaniments. The music was beautifully presented. Mrs. Nathan Ellsworth read a paper, entitled "Our Heritage," in which early life among American women was brought out in its relations to our needs, our problems and the foundations upon which we build today. She also read an original poem, which has been published, called "The Thread."

Thursdays attention included a lace maker, Mrs. Danner, of Hortonville, who spent the day at the city hall and in the midst of the handicraft made lace upon a pillow. On Wednesday Mrs. Albert Stern, (ill), will be present to spin wool upon the spinning wheel which she used in her youth.

It is pointed out, Miss Horn is here upon a furlough and will return. A social hour and lunch will follow the appearance of the missionary.

Old Waupaca Mill Will House Large Industry

This old mill, built at Waupaca 73 years ago, is soon to bustle with renewed activity, according to reports from that city. Despite its age, the mill is reported to be in excellent condition.

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Crystal River Mill on highway No. 19, just inside the southeastern city limits of Waupaca, recently bought by the Fuller Manufacturing Company and soon to bustle with renewed activity, is one of the oldest and most interesting landmarks of Waupaca County.

Seventy-three years ago, when the old mill first opened its doors to grind wheat for the early settlers, it marked a great forward stride for the community. It was the first grist mill in Waupaca, and the first of its kind. With two years prior to its erection, the mill was hauled from Berlin, over thirty miles away. It cut from one to two days off the time required to take the wheat to the grist for grinding into flour.

The Fuller Manufacturing company has acquired a modern factory unit located on one of the desirable power sites in the county. The new factory is fed by lakes and springs and has a fairly uniform flow the year around, providing steady and cheap water power. The main building, a frame affair and the oldest factory building in the county, is in good sound condition. The addition of the new mill and other smaller buildings has rounded out an up-to-date manufacturing plant.

AUTO DAMAGE SUITS COME BEFORE JURIES AS COURT TERM OPENS

All Cases on March Term for Which Juries Were Drawn Concern Automobiles

Four juries were drawn Tuesday morning to hear cases scheduled for trial on the March term of Circuit court which opened Monday. One trial was to start Tuesday afternoon and Judge Edgar V. Werner was to set dates for trial of the other cases.

A $300 damage suit brought by Mrs. Margaret Hackett, Milwaukee, against Otto Jalnke, Neenah, was to open Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hackett seeks damages as the result of an automobile accident on Highway 41 about one-half mile north of Kaukauna on Aug. 24, 1927.

Mrs. Hackett alleges she was traveling north on Highway 41 when Jalnke, driving at an excessive rate of speed and in a careless and negligent manner, crashed into her car. Jalnke denies he was driving negligently but declares that Mrs. Hackett's car was being driven by her son. He charges her car was on the wrong side of the road and lays the blame for the accident on her. He has filed a counter claim for $100.

Other cases in which juries have been drawn are: Harvey Riska against W. H. Spaulding; Audrey Bailey against Fred H. Neuman; and an appeal on a municipal court decision in the case of August Brandt against Raymond Schultz.

Riska, a resident of Appleton, seeks $500 damages from Mr. Spaulding, town of Maine, as the result of an automobile accident on Aug. 21, at the junction of Highway 10 and county trunk M at Medina. Spaulding has filed a counterclaim for $200.

Miss Bailey asks for $100 from Mr. Neuman as a refund on an automobile transaction made in August, 1927.

An appeal taken from a verdict by Judge Theodore Berg giving the August Brandt company a $100 judgment was taken by Schultz. The defendant claims he was a minor at the time of the transaction and therefore any contracts he made were illegal.

HUNDREDS DROWN AS WATER POURS FROM ARTIFICIAL LAKE

Whole Families Wiped Out When Millions of Gallons Pour into Canyon

lives living there were believed to have perished.

Once out of the canyon, the flood spread out between the sloping banks of the Santa Paula river, which held the volume. It cut down a power line of the Southern California Edison company running into Santa Barbara, washed out a Southern Pacific branch line and bore down upon the lemon belt at the foot of Santa Paula. Below there, fear was expressed that it might strike the oil field at Ventura. At one point the water was reported to have formed a wall 75 feet high. This was in the neighborhood of the Carey ranch, on which about 100 persons lived.

Once out of the little valley where it wrought so much damage, the water took the course of the Santa Clara river to flow 30 miles to the Pacific ocean. Officials declared the damage along the Santa Clara would be enormous.

Rer Cross workers were on the scene early, sent from Los Angeles. They brought blankets and other comforts for refugees.

Bright recruited between 500 and 600 deputy sheriffs who were rushed into the district early to preserve order and aid in rescue work.

Heights told Red Cross workers he believed there would be little use for blankets and other comforts, as he felt certain that practically all inhabitants of San Francisco canyon had perished.

Immediately below the dam was a camp of the southern California Edison company headquarters for 75 workers, and fears were expressed that these had been engulfed.

Scattered along the upper canyon in the path of the water were approximately 25 families. The sheriff's office below still believed that some of all of these might have been caught in their sleep by the flood and carried away.

The first report of the disaster, which came from lipemen of the Southern California Telephone company, was that a telephone exchange below San Francisco canyon attributed the dam break to an earthquake.

Aside from the loss of life, the collapse of the St. Francis dam crippled an important link in the city of Los Angeles water system and released a big unit of stored water accumulated through the winter for summer use.

One power house dependent on the dam went out of commission, travel along the scenic ridge through Southern California was menaced, bridges of the Southern Pacific railroad were washed out and heavy losses expected in the citrus groves and small farms of the district.

Harry Carney's ranch, popularized by the film actor-owner as a rodeo center, was reported completely submerged and it was feared 30 Indians living on it may have perished.

Branch line of the Southern Pacific was washed out by the main line held intact.

INVESTIGATE CAUSE
New Calif. (AP)—A preliminary survey Tuesday indicated according to Los Angeles city officials, that water seeping through a hill supporting the west wing of the St. Francis dam had caused the structure to collapse. Previous reports were that the dam gave way as the result of an earthquake.

The seepage was believed to have caused a portion of the hill flanking the western end of the dam to give away. The water then poured through the beach and under the pressure, the eastern wing collapsed next. The center section of the 185 foot wall was reported to be still standing for a distance of 150 feet.

JONES SAYS COLLEGE IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR FAULTY DRAINAGE

Agricultural and State Drainage Engineer Says College Entered Work Later

Madison—(P)—If the state college of agriculture has been blamed for its acts and suggestions in the Wisconsin drainage discussions, recurrent for many years, it need not admit all of the charges against it, E. R. Jones, agricultural engineer and state drainage engineer, said today.

Most—86 percent—of the drainage activities "which bore bitter fruit" in Juneau, Jackson, Monroe, Wood, Portage, and Adams counties were started before the college entered the work in 1905 "to aid the farmers in their plight."

Mr. Jones' statement was issued in view of recent discussions on drainage, which have become prominent since the restoration of Horicon Marsh was voted by the 1927 legislature. The most recent outburst of this controversial subject was in the state senate last week, when Senator W. H. Markham, Horicon, introduced a resolution calling upon the state board of revenue to investigate the work of Mr. Jones or all drainage activities of the college.

WOULD HELP SETTLERS
Tax delinquency following the abandonment of drainage lands as farms, projects by the settlers who rushed to the proposed agricultural area, has become a great factor in the question, Mr. Jones stated.

Speaking of the college's responsibility, he said: "The job of the college was to help the settlers. The problem had arisen, out of the action of the land owners who between 1900 and 1904 had organized, or had in process of organization in those counties, 12 drainage districts, half of which had completed organization and sold their bonds. These districts aggregated 220,000 acres, over 86 percent of the total area now included in drainage districts now suffering from agricultural depression."

"It was the settlers who called on the college for help. The promoters kept aloof since the college had taken the position in 1903 in Portage county district that soil tests should be made before the districts were organized."

The college, "concerned in the human situation," according to Mr. Jones, encouraged the settlers by showing them they could succeed on the lands bought from the promoters.

OBTAINED ENDORSEMENT
"This had the effect of lending the endorsement of the college to the districts, and influenced, favorably, organization of the three smaller districts. In the recent years of agricultural depression, the college has actively opposed extension of drainage into new areas, to the resentment of some land owners."

"To avoid another rush like that of 1901 to organize large drainage projects, the legislature in 1919 passed this present law which gives the state chief engineer some authority in draining organizations. The college loans to him some services of its roads and agricultural engineering departments. Since 1919 sixty projects under the district law or the farm drainage law have completed construction. They average less than 1,000 acres, containing good soil in thickly populated localities. Eighty-seven projects, petitioned for by the land owners failed to complete their organization due to lack of merit. Postponement is advised for those projects which have for their purpose the creation of new farms, and only projects to improve existing farms are endorsed."

"As late as 1923, when the college, acting through the state chief engineer, had some authority in such organizations, it was with difficulty that the college was able to stop construction in a new 5,400-acre project in Adams County organized by the land owners and confirmed by the court that year against the advice of the college. The college held that unless the owner of 3,600 acres of land in this project advanced one-third of his drainage assessments to pay for the ditches, the work should not proceed."

STRIPPED OF TIMBER
The story of these central Wisconsin marshes goes back to 1850 when the federal government ceded them to the state, which soon afterwards sold them to lumbermen. Mr. Jones related that in 1894, the sandy islands dotted over the marsh "had been stripped of their Norway and white pine, and the lands were left on the delinquent tax list. That was the year that the fire swept over the area, leaving a bed of ashes in its path, and paving the way for a rejuvenation."

"In 1895 somebody disced up the ashes and raised a big crop of oats on forty acres of marsh near Valley Junction. The news of this crop spread

AMERICAN TOURISTS ARE GOOD SPENDERS

Although Wisconsin derives much money from the annual influx of tourists, hundreds of millions of dollars are spent each year by tourists who seek recreation in Canada, according to figures compiled by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The following amounts of money spent by United States tourists in Canadian provinces is regarded as conservative: Ontario, $95,291,718, Quebec, $78,521,900; Maritime provinces, $12,500,000; Prairie provinces, $5,600,000; British Columbia, $14,000, making a total of $200,913,618.

A study of the tourist movement among the states in the United States is now being made by the Civic Development department of the National chamber with a view of ascertaining its economical effects.

almost as fast as the fire the year before. Everybody wanted some of this land. Men by the dozen grabbed for tax titles, disced up the marsh, and seeded oats and timothy.

"Then came the wet seasons from 1879 to 1900. Oats refused to grow, and timothy died out. Hungry for more crops, the land owners decided to organize drainage districts for the construction of ditches. The land was held in large holds, and only a few signatures on a petition to the court were necessary to organize a drainage district."

"But the ashes of the fire soon leached away, and the soil refused to raise crops like it did in 1895. The settlers who had bought land of the promoters and built their shacks on the sand islands struggled along until 1905 when they came to the college for help."

It's Great To Be In The Army, In Appleton Anyway

It's a great life being an army officer on active duty in Appleton, according to Captain James K. Campbell and Sergeant Joseph Doyer of the regular army attached to the local national guard company as instructors. You're taken for everything from a member of a local fraternal band to an investigator after someone plotting against the government.

But for the benefit of Appleton residents from the youngsters who ask the captain where the band is going to play, to the more peaceful persons who are afraid the sergeant might be making cannon fodder out of all the peaceful boys in the locality, it might be said these two men are stationed here because it is the center of the territory for which they are responsible. They act as instructors for the local machine gun company and for a chapter of the reserve officers corp but they also drill and inspect other companies in northeastern and northern Wisconsin.

Captain Campbell has been in the army for the last 15 years and can talk for hours about military experiences and the fighting qualities of the various regiments in the country. He has been stationed in Appleton a little more than a year.

Sergeant Doyer is another old army man from point of years in the service. He went overseas during the World War with a Canadian regiment and since his connection with the United States army has had more than his share of travels. He has been stationed here only a few months.

Shortly after the war, when the United States army corps took over the national guard companies in all the states, they sent regular army men into the districts to supervise instruction. These men are responsible for sections to which they have been assigned and also have charge of the administrative work which the government has assumed.
